Recordings of Pauline Viardot's music

Note on the new online edition

Pauline Viardot wrote a quite astonishing amount of music, yet never considered herself a composer by profession: she was rather a singer, pianist, teacher and materfamilias. The works that she produced arose from these other functions, and were frequently experiments, test pieces, or tasks for herself, her pupils and her children to undertake and have constructive fun with. Some were simply adaptations of one kind or another from Chopin, Schubert, Brahms and other masters, or arrangements of popular French and Spanish airs. Her works carried no opus numbers, existed in variant forms, often remained in manuscript, and were for the most part brief. As one of her pupils put it, ‘Unlike most composers, Viardot seemed unwilling to make her own compositions public. All her life she shrank from publicity in any form.’ That is not to say that Pauline Viardot’s music has no character or originality: far from it. Much of it exhibits that same genius and intellectual strength which distinguished her from lesser contemporaries on the concert platform or the operatic stage. As her career developed, the quantity and seriousness of what she wrote became ever more remarkable. It is both good and rewarding that a wave of modern performers should bring her fresh and enjoyable compositions to the attention of a music-loving public. But they remain essentially spontaneous and occasional, unlike that of the many composers who admired her and counted her their colleague or friend: Liszt, Chopin, Schumann, Meyerbeer, Gounod, Berlioz, Brahms, Tchaikovsky, Saint-Saëns, Fauré, Lalo, Hahn... It is because of her eclecticism, her ventures into many disparate fields, that Pauline Viardot’s work is best viewed from the chronological perspective of her lifetime. Among other things, the arrangement by year clearly demonstrates how busy and creative she was even in the long decades of her widowhood.

Despite the foregoing, it should not be thought that Pauline Viardot as a composer has been ‘discovered’ only recently. As early as 1843 music critics were applauding her inventiveness, refinement, warmth and special charm. Later, Saint-Saëns among others praised her compositions highly, and in her maturity one commentator was so bold as to compare her songs to Schubert’s. At her death, Henri de Curzon stated that she had written four hundred and fifty works. How this figure was arrived at cannot be said, but it almost certainly counts as two or more each work that was reissued in a variant form or forms, for instance a song published originally in one language and later in another or others. It may well also embrace those many items not by Pauline Viardot herself which she used in her Ecole classique du chant, and which for the sake of completeness are included in the present online catalogue. Four hundred and fifty is nevertheless a useful number to bear in mind as the tally of her productions creeps up, with hitherto unknown pieces continually surfacing in libraries and personal archives. Most of these are of course in manuscript, but a few published in now rare periodicals also remain to be located. This online catalogue will be able to do what its printed precursors could achieve only with difficulty and at great extra cost, namely to add from time to time such new items as may appear, as well as to correct or revise particular entries on the basis of fresh information.

But our database has further aims. Ever since The Musical Works of Pauline Viardot-Garcia first appeared as a brochure in 2001, certain limitations then acknowledged have been hovering in the background. Some were partially addressed in the revised and enlarged second print edition (2004), but others still remained. With the veritable eruption of new interest in Pauline Viardot over recent years, especially in her compositions, and with the widespread diffusion of these both in recordings and on internet sites such as the MUGI Grundseite which has incorporated all the titles of her works that I had previously listed, it seemed appropriate to add to the present pioneering catalogue a register of musical incipits and a more comprehensive discography. The earlier editions included only a selected list of recordings, and carried no incipits because of technical difficulties and my own relative musical illiteracy. My good friend and colleague Nicholas Žekulin, who has helped me with this work since the beginning and to whom I owe an enormous debt of gratitude, has kindly supplied the needed sections. We have together taken the opportunity also to thoroughly revise the whole, making corrections of detail, expanding entries where necessary, and adding a number of new ones where works by Pauline Viardot have come to light since the last edition in 2004.

By making the fruits of our research available on the internet we are, of course, laying ourselves open to the daily plundering of that medium, which gobbles up most of what is published despite the laws of intellectual property. Just as when one searches someone's life on Google a dozen versions come up with an almost identical text, each claiming to be original, even so the findings in our catalogue will doubtless quickly appear on a number of different sites. We can only urge users to comply with our copyright but, more still, to respect those genuine historical sources and authoritative works that we rely upon, rather than the half-truths of bloggers. The phenomenal explosion of interest in Pauline Viardot has generated much solid research but has led also to a previously unimagined popularisation of her life and work, sometimes to the point of extravagance. The inevitable errors which occasionally occur even in dependable published works and in theses about her, once not harmful in themselves, unfortunately now have a way of becoming so by their constant replication on multifarious, sometimes highly inaccurate websites. For instance, an album called L’Oiseau d’or had nothing to do with Pauline Viardot, and I can find no justification for the often repeated statement that she wrote or published in 1879 a stage work entitled ‘Le Conte de fées’ (L’Ogre was of course so described in 1868).

We are nevertheless fully aware that there may be deficiencies in our own work, and will welcome any fact-based comments or suggestions, whether for additions, corrections or improvement.

Most sections of the present work should be self-explanatory, but it is necessary to say something more about the catalogue proper. The vast majority of published compositions by Pauline Viardot included there are held in the Département de la Musique of the Bibliothèque nationale de France. Other important collections are to be found at the British Library, at Cambridge University Library, and in the Women Composers Collection at the University of Michigan. The Malibran Society of Los Angeles, under the initiative of Carol Russell Law, has done excellent work in reprinting original scores. Numerous manuscript compositions are held in private archives, often referred to here but not named for reasons of confidentiality. The most significant public collections are at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz in Paris, and in the Pauline Viardot-Garcia papers (MS Mus 232 and MS Mus 264) at the Houghton Library, Harvard College Library, Harvard University; both contain many printed works also. Most of the now public archives derive from the Chamerot-Decugis and Duvernoy-Beaulieu sides of the Viardot family; the Chamerot-Maupoil ones are still largely in private hands.

Although many publishers’ records have disappeared, including those of Ries & Erler lost during World War II, it has been possible to supplement standard library information about Pauline Viardot’s compositions from music bibliographies such as the Hofmeister Monatsberichte (referred to below as Whistling) and Pazdírek’s Universal-Handbuch. These often help with the challenging problem of dating published scores, few of which carried a year of issue, and many items can also be correctly placed in sequence thanks to accession stamps, press reviews, or references in the correspondence of Pauline Viardot’s friends and colleagues, including in particular the great Russian novelist Ivan Sergeyevich Turgenev. Sometimes the holograph manuscripts of works are dated, and, in the case of the Viardot-Turgenev operettas, we know more or less precisely when the first performances took place. Many doubtful cases still remain, however, and some years given with question marks must be considered rather speculative.

Russian names and titles have been transliterated according to the traditional semi-phonetic British system, with the exception of ‘Rubinstein’ and ‘Tchaikovsky’ in place of a more accurate ‘Rubinshteyn’ and ‘Chaykovskiy’.

Among the many friends, colleagues and individual librarians and archivists who have helped me with this project over the years, I thank with particular warmth Nicholas Žekulin, Dominique Hausfater, Claude Brach, Jean-Pierre Brach, Benoît Riou, Roger Flury, Colin Clarkson, the late Michèle Beaulieu, the late April FitzLyon and the late André and Martine Le Cesne. I acknowledge also my significant debt to numerous efficient and self-effacing members of staff at the Bibliothèque nationale de France (Département de la Musique), the Bibliothèque historique de la Ville de Paris, the Bibliothèque de l’Arsenal, the British Library, Cambridge University Library, the Bodleian Library, the Houghton Library of Harvard University, the Alexander Turnbull Library and the National Library of New Zealand.

Chronological catalogue

[Works known to have been published are entered with the head words in bold type.]

Mid-1830s. According to some contemporary authorities (Escudier, Fétis), Pauline Garcia is the presumed author of piano accompaniments to the violin studies of Charles de Bériot.

1838. Der junge Fischer. Russisches Nationallied. ‘Rausche hin, dunkle Welt, zur Geliebten; rausche schnell!’ Song for medium voice with piano accompaniment, signed: ‘Berlin le 7 juin 1838. Pauline Garcia.’ Probably unpublished; manuscript Mary Flagler Cary Music Collection, Pierpont Morgan Library, New York. It cannot be said if this piece is connected with one of the same title and first line by Joseph Panny (his op. 29 no. 1, 1831).

1838. Goldfischlein. ‘Wenn auf dem See im Sonnenschein.’ Song with words by Förster. Manuscript at Harvard, dated Berlin 1838.

1838. Nine bars of untitled autograph music, signed: ‘Töplitz le 22 Juillet 1838— Pauline Garcia.’ Presumably unpublished. [Koninklijke Bibliotheek, Netherlands, MSS 76 E 29, Brieven en stukken van musici, no. 69.2.]

1838. Etoile du soir. ‘Etoile, belle étoile.’ Song with piano accompaniment. Probably unpublished. Manuscript ML96.V44 (case), Library of Congress, Washington, signed ‘Pauline Garcia, Francfort, le 18 août 1838’. An autograph of this piece at the Conservatoire royal de musique de Bruxelles is assigned to 1834, but I think that must be in error. [The work may perhaps derive from Mayrhofer’s ‘Abendstern’.]

1838. Die Capelle [Kapelle] von Uhland, für Singstimme und Pianoforte. ‘Droben stehet die Capelle.’ Sammlung von Musik-Stücken alter und neuer Zeit, als Zulage zur Neuen Zeitschrift für Musik, vol. III, Leipzig, September 1838. [See below, 1843, Album, no. 2.] —A manuscript copy of this song is at Harvard, dated Leipzig 1838; another is at the Augustiner-Chorherrenstift, Bibliothek und Musikarchiv.

1838. Seliger Tod. ‘Gestorben war ich vor Liebeswonne.’ Song with words by Ludwig Uhland. Probably unpublished. Manuscript at Harvard, dated Leipzig 1838; extract (album-leaf) at the Pierpont Morgan Library, New York.

?1838. Il ne vient pas. ‘Il avait dit quand la saison des fleurs.’ Song with words by Ambroise Béroudé. Manuscript at Harvard.

1839. ‘Approche du rivage, ô fille du pêcheur. Vois, le ciel sans nuages nous promet le bonheur.' Unpublished musical autograph by Pauline Garcia written in the album of the sculptor Jean-Pierre Dantan jeune, Paris, 20 March 1839. Manuscript at the Département de la Musique, Bibliothèque nationale de France, Rés. Vm7 537.

1839. 'Tu d'amarmi un dì giurasti, adorato mio.' Musical autograph by Pauline Garcia written for the album of Mr [Giuseppe] Denza, London, 1 August 1839. Harvard.

1839. Le Retour du printemps. Poésie du XVme siècle. 'Le temps a laissé son manteau de vent de froidure et de pluie.' Probably unpublished song, with words by Charles d'Orléans. One autograph at Harvard is dated Boulogne 7 August 1839. Harvard also has fourteen bars of the song, signed by Pauline Viardot at Naples on 17 June 1840, as well as a contemporary draft entitled Rivière, fontaine (the third stanza of the work). The opening musical phrase for voice and piano was written and signed by Pauline Garcia in an album, Paris, 18 March 1840 (manuscript at the Département de la Musique, Bibliothèque nationale de France).

1839. Fischerlied. 'Ein armer Fischer bin ich zwar.' Song with a folk text no doubt wrongly attributed by the composer to Ludwig Uhland. Manuscript at Harvard, dated Boulogne, 12 August [1839].

1839. Andantino for piano. Manuscript dated 28 August 1839. —Also a string-quartet arrangement of this by Charles Zeuner dated 23 October 1839. [Moldenhauer Archives, Music Division, Library of Congress, Box 55. See also 1842 and 1866 (Petite suite).]

1839. Mouvement de Tarentelle, for piano in C minor, signed: 'Souvenir à mon amie Juliette [Zimmerman]. Pauline Garcia. Paris le 19 9bre 1839.' See Himelfarb, pp. 42, 52. Presumably unpublished, but see 1866, Petite suite.

?1839. Il barcaruolo. 'J'ai ma barque.' Song to words by Gustave de Larenaudière, of which two probably related drafts exist in manuscript at Harvard.

1840s. Transcriptions of popular songs from the Berry region. See Julien Tiersot, Mélodies populaires des provinces de France, first series, Paris: au Ménestrel (Heugel), 1887 (no. 6, 'Briolage. Chant du laboureur berrichon', no. 10, 'Le chant des livrées. Chanson de noces du Berry', and no. 18, 'Les Répliques de Marion. Chanson dialoguée. Version du Berry'), and La Chanson populaire et les écrivains romantiques, Paris, 1931 (no. 3, 'Les Répliques de Marion. Morbleu, sambleu, Marion', and no. 4, 'Mon merle'); others include 'Le Roi Loÿs', 'Le Jaloux. Chanson dialoguée', 'Voilà six mois que c'était le printemps', 'La Fille séduite', and 'A la claire fontaine'. [See on this also Alexandre Zviguilsky (ed.),

Ivan Tourguénev, Nouvelle correspondance inédite, vol. II, Paris, 1972, p. xxii.]

1840s and 1850s. Arrangements of other French folksongs for herself and colleagues to perform in concerts, drawn from collections by Théophile Dumersan and others such as Chants et Chansons populaires de la France (1843) and Chansons nationales et populaires de la France (1847), and including ‘La Romanesca’, ‘Margoton’, ‘La Musette’, ‘La Brunette’, ‘A l’ombre d’un ormeau’ and ‘L’Amour au mois de mai’.

1840s and 1850s. Transcriptions and arrangements for one or two voices of Spanish, Mexican and other Latin American popular songs, which Pauline Viardot often sang in concerts. As well as the items listed under 1853, these included ‘Seguidilla de los oficialitos’ (or simply ‘Los oficialitos’) and ‘La jota de los estudiantes’ (also known as ‘La serenada de los estudiantes’; see below, 1858 and 1876). [Note, however, that Pauline Viardot never published a German collection called ‘Spanische Lieder’, as some have maintained.]

1840. L’Enfant de la montagne. ‘Je suis l’enfant de la montagne.’ Paroles d’Uhland. Paris: La France musicale. (Translation by Emilien Pacini of Des Knaben Berglied, also known as Der Knabe vom Berge: ‘Ich bin vom Berg der Hirtenknab.’) [See below, 1843, Album, no. 1. The song was written earlier in German, perhaps in 1838.]

1841. L’Hirondelle et le Prisonnier. ‘Hirondelle gentille, qui voltige à la grille du cachot noir.’ Words adapted from the poem by Hector-Grégoire de Saint-Maur (first published anonymously in the Gazette de Sainte-Pélagie in 1834). Paris: Bureaux de La France musicale, 1 January 1841. —A manuscript of the song is at Harvard, dated 18 March 1842.

1842. Andantino for oboe and piano, probably unpublished. Written and signed ‘Pauline Viardot. Paris 12 Avril 1842’ in the musical autograph album of Gustave Vogt. Mary Flagler Cary Music Collection, Pierpont Morgan Library, New York.

1843. Album de Mme Viardot-Garcia. Huit morceaux de chant avec accompagnement de piano. Paris: Eugène Troupenas & Cie, 1843.
 1. L’Enfant de la montagne. Ballade. ‘Je suis l’enfant de la montagne.’ Paroles d’Uhland. (Dedicated to George Sand.) 2. La Chapelle. Ballade. ‘Là-haut se voit la chapelle.’ Paroles d’Uhland. (Dedicated to Ary Scheffer.) 3. L’Abricotier. Chanson servienne. ‘Un ruisseau coule et murmure.’ (Dedicated to Eugénie Garcia.) 4. Adieu les beaux jours. Romance. ‘Déjà la tendre fleur d’automne.’ (Dedicated to Daniel Auber.) 5. L’Exilé polonais. Couplets. ‘Voulant des chefs et non des maîtres.’

(Dedicated to Jean Géraldy.) 6. L'Enfant et la Mère. Dialogue. [Known also as L'Enfant malade.] ‘Oh! ma mère, entends cette voix.’ (Dedicated to Mme Eugène [Clotilde] Troupenas.) 7. L'Ombre et le Jour. Mélodie. ‘Vois-tu la nuit qui se retire.’ Paroles d’Edouard Turquety. (Dedicated to Catherine Stephens, Countess of Essex.) [This song was known also as La Nuit et le Jour.] 8. Le Chêne et le Roseau. Fable. ‘Le chêne, un jour, dit au roseau.’ Paroles de La Fontaine. (Dedicated to Louis Viardot.) [The individual items were also sold separately, now by Troupenas and later by Brandus & Cie. Some had been written considerably earlier, for instance Le Chêne et le Roseau in 1841, and the complete ‘1843’ collection was published actually at the end of December 1842.] — Manuscripts of Adieu les beaux jours, l’Exilé polonais, l’Ombre et le Jour, and le Chêne et le Roseau, mélodies pour chant and piano, are at the Département de la Musique, Bibliothèque nationale de France; that of l’Abricotier is at the Musikabteilung, Stadtbibliothek, Hanover; and another manuscript of Adieu les beaux jours is at Harvard. — L’Abricotier. Chanson servienne à une voix avec accompagnement. Paris and Mainz: Schott, 1845. Abrikosovoye derevo. Serbskaya pesnya. St Petersburg: V. Bessel’, no date. —Le Chêne et le Roseau. Fable pour chant et piano. Paroles de La Fontaine. Paris and Mainz: Schott, 1845. [See also ?1861, Mélodies.]

[Note that a persistent piece of misinformation, apparently initiated by Ellen Creathorne Clayton in her Queens of song (2 vols, London, 1863, vol. II, p. 250), has Pauline Viardot publishing in 1843 ‘five songs and romances in an album entitled L’Oiseau d’or’. This was actually a volume of piano pieces on bird subjects, and the confusion probably arose from the fact of its being reviewed together with Pauline Viardot’s own album in the Musical World of 5 January 1843, p. 8.]

1843. Une fleur. Paroles d’Edouard Turquety. ‘La légère fleur tremble sur sa tige.’ L’Illustration, 4 March 1843. [Reprinted in Nuvellist, 1844, vol. VI, and perhaps also in the collection Severnaya lira, 1844. Cf. the altered title below in 1850, 10 mélodies, no. 4.]

?1843. Songs. ‘Sur ma tête reposée.’ Paroles d’Edouard Turquety. Probably unpublished song, written about now. See Turgenev, Pis’ma, vol. 1, p. 318.

?1843. Auf die Rose. ‘Laßt des Eros’ Blume glänzen.’ A song published at Leipzig as no. 16 in Philipp Reclam’s compendium Das singende Deutschland. Album der ausgewähltesten Lieder und Romanzen [für eine Singstimme] mit Begleitung des Pianoforte, pp. 30-1. Reissued 1848; 1854; 1859. [This item was clearly written and perhaps printed earlier, because it is stated to be by Pauline Garcia rather than Viardot. I cannot say what connection its text, presumably from Anacreon's Ode XLIV, may have with Eduard Mörike's 'Laßt die Rose, Eros' Blume'.]

1843. Unpublished cadenza on 'Ah fu un lampo, un sogno, un gioco' from the heroine's aria 'Non più mesta accanto al fuoco' in Act II of Rossini's opera La cenerentola, written in an album and signed at Leipzig, 20 August 1843. Manuscript in the Mary Flagler Cary Music Collection, Pierpont Morgan Library, New York. [Cf. 1858, signed musical autograph.]

1844. Caña española. 'Si de tu ausencia no muero.' 'Aux longs tourments de l'absence.' Spanish popular song, often performed by Pauline Viardot from this time on and perhaps published now. See below, 1850, 10 mélodies, no. 3.

1844. La Leçon. Tyrolienne. (Die Sing-Lection.) By Mme Malibran and Mme Garcia-Viardot. Vienna: Mechetti, spring 1844. [Pauline Viardot's arrangement of a comic song, actually by Amédée de Beauplan, which her late sister used in the lesson scene of Rossini's Il barbiere di Siviglia, and which she, too, took over for that purpose.]

1845. La Solitude. 'La primevère mourante.' Paroles d'Edouard Turquety. Song published in L'Illustration, vol. IV, 4 January 1845, pp. 276-7. See also below, 1850, 10 mélodies, no. 1.

?1845. Fortunilla. Canción española. Song written around 1845 in the album of Mikhail Yur'evich Viyel'gorsky, perhaps only arranged by Pauline Viardot.

1846. Musical parody on the fable 'Le Corbeau et le Renard' by Jean de La Fontaine. ('Un jour maître Corbeau, sur un arbre perché.') [Included in a letter from Pauline Viardot to Matvey Yur'evich Viyel'gorsky, Paris, 10 April 1846. See Muzikal'noye nasledstvo, vol. II, part 2, Moscow, 1968, pp. 25-6 (and p. 57).]

1846. Setting of the fable 'Le Savetier et le Financier' by Jean de La Fontaine. ('Un savetier chantait du matin jusqu'au soir.') [See Marix-Spore, Lettres inédites, p. 224. The song was probably not published at the time, but see 1904, Mélodies.]

1847. Polka for piano. Manuscript dated 17 May 1847; probably unpublished. [See Moldenhauer Archives, Music Division, Library of Congress, Box 55.]

1847. Cadenza for the aria 'Quand je quittai la Normandie' from Meyerbeer's opera Robert le diable, included in a letter from Pauline Viardot to Matvey Yur'evich Viyel'gorsky, Paris, 14 March 1847. See Muzikal'noye nasledstvo, vol. II, part 2, Moscow, 1968, pp. 43-4.

1847. Verlangen. ‘Ich weiß im grünen Walde.’ Désir. ‘Je connais une rose.’ Song signed by Pauline Viardot for the author of the words, Ludwig Rellstab, with the signature also of Louis Viardot and the date Berlin, 30 March 1847. See Ute Lange-Brachmann and Joachim Draheim, Pauline Viardot in Baden-Baden und Karlsruhe, Baden-Baden, 1999, p. 66.

1848. La Jeune République. Paroles de Mr Pierre Dupont. Musique de Mme Pauline Viardot. ‘Paris est sorti du tombeau.’ Paris: En dépôt chez Mme Vve Launer ...et MM. Brandus & Cie ...E. Troupenas & Cie ...J. Meissonnier & fils ..., 1848; L’Illustration, 22 April 1848, pp. 116-17. This cantata in the form of a march, scored for soloist (tenor or soprano) and mixed chorus with piano accompaniment, existed also in an orchestral form presumably not by the composer.

1850. 10 mélodies par Pauline Viardot. Album de chant pour 1850. Paris: Brandus & Cie. 1. Solitude. ‘La primevère mourante.’ Paroles d’Edouard Turquety. (Dedicated to Theodosia, Lady Monson. See 1845, above.) 2. La Petite chevrière. ‘Ah! c’est déjà ma fauvette.’ Anonymous. (Dedicated to Aglaé Gaveaux-Sabatier.) 3. L’Absence. (Caña española.) ‘Aux longs tourments de l’absence.’ Anonymous. [‘Si de tu ausencia no muero.’] (Dedicated to Giacomo Meyerbeer.) 4. Un jour de printemps. Caprice. ‘La légère fleur tremble sur sa tige.’ Paroles d’Edouard Turquety. (Dedicated to Count Matvey Yu. Viyel’gorsky.) 5. Villanelle. ‘Voici venir sur la pelouse.’ Paroles d’Edouard Turquety. (Dedicated to General Aleksey F. L’vov.) 6. En mer. ‘La lune dans les cieux.’ Paroles de Gustave de Larenaudière. (Dedicated to Hector Berlioz.) 7. La Chanson de Loïc. ‘Dès que la grive est éveillée.’ Paroles d’Auguste Brizeux. (Dedicated to Marietta Alboni.) 8. Marie et Julie. (Pour ténor.) ‘Les lys sont bien charmants.’ Paroles de Gustave de Larenaudière. (Dedicated to Gustave Roger.) 9. La Luciole. ‘Voyez la luciole.’ Paroles de Gustave de Larenaudière. (Dedicated to Delphine Ugalde.) 10. Tarentelle. ‘Dansez, pêcheur napolitain.’ Anonymous. (Dedicated to Antonia Léonard.) [The complete ‘1850’ collection was published actually in December 1849. The individual items were also sold separately, and in addition nos 1, 2 and 3 were bound with some songs by other composers in an Album de chant ...offert aux abonnés de la Revue et Gazette musicale de Paris (1850).] —Draft manuscripts of nos 6, 7 and 8 are at Harvard, and a manuscript of no. 9 is in a private collection in Paris. Harvard has in addition a draft variant of no. 7 beginning with the second stanza of the Brizeux poem, ‘A son tour, Anna, ma compagne’. A partial manuscript of no. 4 was auctioned at Christie’s New York in 1995 (sale 8144, lot 220). No. 10 was first sketched as a piano piece in 1839 (q.v.) [See also ?1861, Mélodies.]

1853. Lyubimyye ispanskiye romansy, ispolnyayemye g-zhoyu Viardo i g-zhoyu Leonar. [Favourite Spanish songs, performed by Mme Viardot and Mme Léonard.] Arranged by Pauline Viardot. St Petersburg: Brandus, 1853. 1. La celeste. Canción andaluza. 2. Ay! Manola. Canción española. 3. La colasa. Canción madrileña. [There was perhaps also a French edition, but I have not traced one. See also 1858.]

?1853. Las muchachas de la Havana [sic] son negras como monillas. Transcription of a Cuban popular song. [Pauline Viardot wrote the first musical line of it for someone in London this year.]

?1853. Chanson d'Aben Hamet. ('Chantez la chanson d'esclavage d'Aben Hamet l'abencerrage [sic for Abencérage].') [Pauline Viardot wrote the vocal music and words of the first line of this otherwise unknown song in the album of the composer A.S. Dargomyzhsky on 23 February (7 March) 1853. Pushkinskiy dom, St Petersburg.]

1855. Valse. Pour piano. Messager des dames et des demoiselles, 1855.

1858. Album de las Señoras Viardot-García, Castellan, Nantier-Didié, Alboni y Clara Novello. Arias y canciones nacionales a una y a dos voces con pianoforte. London: Schott & Co, 1858. This item is included here because many of these Spanish popular songs, issued separately in 1858 and later, undoubtedly had some input from Pauline Viardot's own interpretation of them in public. The nineteen pieces were: 1. La cachucha. Spanish text only. 2. La calesera. Spanish and English texts. 3. La tirana se embarcó. Spanish text only. 4. Canción de amor. Spanish text only. 5. Seguidilla española. Spanish text only. 6. Si piensas engañar. Spanish text only. 7. El charrán. Spanish and English texts. 8. La Manola. Spanish and English texts. 9. La perla de Triana. Spanish and English texts. 10. Ay las nadadores. Spanish text only. 11. El contrabandista. Spanish and English texts. 12. Himno patriótico. Spanish and English texts. 13. Himno de Riego. Spanish and English texts. 14. La jota aragonesa. Del vestido azul. Arranged by Sebastián Yradier. Spanish text only. 15. El jaque. Canción española. Arranged by Sebastián Yradier. Spanish text only. 16. La colasa. Canción madrileña. Arranged by Sebastián Yradier. Spanish text only. 17. El curro marinero. Canción española. Arranged by Sebastián Yradier. Spanish text only. [18. El fandango. Withdrawn from sale.] 19. Jota de los estudiantes. Canzone spagnuola [i.e. Canción española]. Arranged by Sebastián Yradier. Spanish text only. —La calesera. Chanson espagnole. ?1868.

1858. Signed musical autograph of an embellished vocal line from the opening of the aria ‘Non più mesta accanto al fuoco’ in Act II of Rossini’s La cenerentola. Written at Weimar on 22 December 1858 in the album of Princess Marie von Sayn-Wittgenstein. Goethe-Schiller Archiv, Weimar. [Cf. 1843, unpublished cadenza.]

1859. Récitatif et air d’Orphée de Gluck. ‘Amour, viens rendre à mon âme.’ (‘L’espérance renaît dans mon âme.’) Arrangement by Berlioz, Saint-Saëns and Pauline Viardot of the arietta originally written for Joseph Legros to end Act I, with the cadenza introduced by Pauline Viardot on the words ‘Je vais braver le trépas...’ Incorporated in the official voice and piano score for Orphée published by Léon Escudier in December 1859. A manuscript version of the cadenza, signed ‘souvenir à monsieur [Hubert-Ferdinand] Kufferath’, is at the Library of Congress, Washington, ML96.V44 (case). See also Adolphe Brisson, Portraits intimes, 5th series, Paris, 1901, p. 133; Musica, Paris, July 1910, p. 102; Musical Quarterly, vol. II, 1916, facing p. 46; Blanche Marchesi, Singer’s pilgrimage, London, 1923, p. 254.

1860s. Sketches for a planned short comic opera based on La Mare au diable by George Sand. Pauline Viardot is known to have composed at least four pieces for this; they may no longer exist, but see Miscellaneous and undatable mss, L’Esprit. [See Thérèse Marix-Spire, ‘Vicissitudes d’un opéra-comique: La Mare au diable, de George Sand et de Pauline Viardot (d’après des documents inédits)’, Romanic Review, vol. XXXV, no. 2, April 1944, pp. 125-46; Cahiers Ivan Tourguéniev—Pauline Viardot—Maria Malibran, no. 3, October 1979, pp. 56-74, 79.]

1860. Orphée. Musique de Gluck. ‘J’ai perdu mon Eurydice.’ Air chanté par M. [sic] Viardot-Garcia. Paris: Lemoine aîné, Harand successeur. This aria, as arranged to be sung by Pauline Viardot in Gluck’s opera, has been transposed into D major and in her Ecole classique du chant will first appear as such, though the later Hamelle collection will also have a higher version for soprano (and a lower one singable by a bass).

?1861. Mélodies de Mme Pauline Viardot. E. Gérard & Cie, no date. This collection of eighteen songs, numbered alphabetically by title, brought together the two albums of 1843 and 1850. Note that Marie et Julie (1850) was here called Marie et Louise.

1861-?1891. Ecole classique du chant. Collection de morceaux choisis dans les chefs-d’œuvre des plus grands maîtres classiques italiens, allemands et français, avec le style, l’accentuation, le phrasé et les nuances propres à l’interprétation traditionnelle de ces chefs-d’œuvre. Par Mme P. Viardot-Garcia. Publication complète divisée en six séries.

Première série. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, 1861. —Ecole classique de [sic] chant... Edition revue et augmentée. Paris: J. Hamelle, no date [1891?]; reissued 1895, 1896, 1905. —Ecole classique du chant. Auswahl klassischer Gesänge. Nebst genauer Angabe von Stil, Akzentuation, Phrase, Nuancierung (italienisch—deutsch—französisch). [Thirteen items.] Berlin: Schlesinger, ?1863.

—What began to appear in 1861 was the first of six planned series, each intended to contain fifty items and to appear annually, but the comprehensive collection of c. 1891 included only seventy-six pieces in all, and as late as 1896 an edition of seventy items was still being advertised in the Annuaire des artistes de l'enseignement dramatique et musical. In 1861 four batches of ten came out (nos 1-40); in 1862, one batch (nos 41-50); and in 1879-80 a further batch (nos 51-60). The remaining pieces apparently came out singly around 1886 and after, with a new publisher, J. Hamelle. It is known that, as of the winter of 1891-92 at least, Pauline Viardot considered her Ecole classique du chant as still a work in progress and firmly intended to add, for example, the Bergère's aria 'On s'étonnerait moins que la saison nouvelle' from Act II scene iv of Gluck's opera Armide.

From the start, all individual scores in the series were sold separately and some existed in two or more versions (for different voices or with different instrumental accompaniment than the standard piano). The list which follows draws from contemporary music catalogues and press advertisements, including a title page reproduced in Cahiers Ivan Tourguéniev—Pauline Viardot—Maria Malibran, no. 10, 1986, p. 125. Each number comprises Pauline Viardot's 'partition pour piano et chant' for the stated singer or key, and a brief introduction to it. Where the texts were originally in Italian, German or English, Sylvain Saint-Etienne made French translations for the series published by Gérard in 1861-62; from item 51 on, this work was taken over by Louis Pomey. In the advertised collections, the constituent pieces were always set out in the order title/voice/composer/price, but it seemed better here to list them by composer/title/voice, omitting price. For the sake of bibliographical accuracy the names of the items and their composers are retained in French rather than in received international forms ('Haendel' instead of 'Handel', 'Pergolèse' instead of 'Pergolesi', etc.), but explanatory details are added wherever necessary. Note that some of the titles were slightly modified from the Gérard to the Hamelle publication (both in language and in sequence), and that many also differed as between what appears in the overall list and what is printed on the scores; they have been entered here in the form that gives greatest precision.

1. J.-B. Lulli. Air de Méduse, de l'opéra Persée. Contralto. [Méduse's recitative and aria ‘J’ai perdu la beauté qui me rendait si vaine’, from Lully’s lyric tragedy Persée.] —Manuscript Lisa Cox Music catalogue no. 50, item 123, where the date ‘c. 1858’ is proposed; now at Harvard.

2. Haendel. Air de Lucifer de la Résurrection. Basse. [Lucifero’s ‘O voi, dell’Erebo potenze orribili’, from Handel’s oratorio La resurrezione.]

- 57a. Le même. Avec violon (ou violoncelle ou mandoline).
58. Beethoven. Près de ma tombe obscure: mélodie. Contralto ou basse. [The arietta ‘In questa tomba oscura’.]
59. C.-M. de Weber. Scène et air d'Oberon: opéra. ‘Vaste mer! ton sein immense.’ Soprano. [Rezia's recitative and aria ‘Ocean! thou mighty monster’.]
60. Spohr. Scène et air de Faust: opéra. ‘La nuit fait place au jour.’ Soprano. [Kunigunde's recitative and aria ‘Die stille nacht entweicht’.] —An undated German fragment at Harvard entitled Faust may be connected with this.
61. Mozart. Récitatif et Rondo. (La Prise de Jéricho). Soprano ou mezzo-soprano. [This is presumably ‘D'une fausse pitié je ne fus point séduite... Eh! pourquoi me faire un crime?’, from the pasticcio oratorio La Prise de Jéricho first staged in Paris on 10 April 1805; it was seemingly based in part on Mozart's ‘Ch'io mi scordi di te... Non temer amato bene’, K. 505.]
62. J.-B. Lulli. Air de l'opéra Atys. Mezzo-soprano. [Probably Cybèle's aria ‘Espoir si cher, et si doux’.]
63. Haendel. Cavatine de Rodelinda. Contralto. [Doubtless Bertarido's aria ‘Dove sei, amato bene’.]
64. Haendel. Air de Jules César. (Le Torrent.) Basse ou contralto. [The title hero's aria ‘Quel torrente, che cade del monte’, from Giulio Cesare.]
65. Haydn. Récitatif et Air d'Orphée et Eurydice. Soprano ou mezzo-soprano. [Doubtless the Genio's ‘Al tuo seno fortunato’, from L'anima del filosofo, ossia Orfeo ed Euridice.]
66. Gluck. Air d'Armide. (La Naiade.) ‘Au temps heureux où l'on sait plaisir.’ Soprano ou ténor.

67. Haendel. Air d'Armide de Rinaldo. Soprano ou ténor. [Armida's 'Vò far guerra, e vincer voglio'.]

68. J.-B. Lulli. Air des Songes de Persée. 'Je ne puis dans votre malheur... O tranquille sommeil, que vous êtes charmant.' Contralto. [Mercure's recitative and aria.]

69. Mozart. Air de la Flûte enchantée. Soprano. [Pamina's aria 'Ach, ich fühl's, es ist verschwunden', from Die Zauberflöte.]

70. Pergolèse. Duo du Stabat mater. Soprano et mezzo-soprano. [It cannot be said what this is: the work contains seven such duets. Either 'Quis est homo qui non fleret' or 'Inflammatus et accensus' would seem most probable.]

71. Gluck. Récitatif et Air d'Orphée. (Objet de mon amour.) Contralto. [Orphée's aria in Act I scene ii.]

72. Gluck. Récitatif et Air d'Iphigénie en Aulide. Soprano ou mezzo-soprano. [Clytemnestre's 'Seigneur, j'embrasse vos genoux! ...Par un père cruel à la mort condamnée'.]

73. Mendelssohn-Bartholdy. Duo d'Athalie (ou chœur). 'O bien heureux.' En si bémol [B flat]. [The duet for two sopranos, 'O wie selig ist das Kind'.]

73a. Le même. En la bémol [A flat].

74. Haendel. Récitatif et Air du Messie. Soprano ou ténor. [This is hard to identify: it could perhaps be 'He that dwelleth in Heav'n shall laugh them to scorn... Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron'.]

74a. Le même. Mezzo-soprano ou baryton.

75. Schumann. J'ai pardonné. (2 tons.) Mezzo-soprano. ['Ich grolle nicht', from Dichterliebe.]

76. J.-B. Lulli. Air de Thésée. (Revenez amours.) (2 tons.) [Vénus's aria 'Revenez amours, revenez'.]

1863. Die Klagende. Dichtung von Dilia Helena. For contralto or baritone. Berlin: Schlesinger, 1863.

1863. Poslednyaya tucha (or: Tucha). Die Wolke. Poem by A.S. Pushkin. A song composed and performed this year which probably remained unpublished.

1863. Kogda pechal' slezoy nevol'noy. Poem from Maskarad by M.Yu. Lermontov. A song composed this year which probably remained unpublished.

1863. Kakaya noch'. Poem by A.A. Fet. A song composed this year which probably remained unpublished.

1863. ?Psikheya. Poem by A.A. Fet (perhaps 'Tselyy zastavila den' menya promechnat' ty segodnya'). A song composed this year which probably remained unpublished.

?1864. Transcription for organ, harp, violin and three women's voices of the Bach-Gounod Ave Maria. Written around 1864 and performed at least this year, the work probably remained unpublished.

1864. Leave me. Recitative and air sung by Madlle [sic] Pauline Viardot Garcia, composed by G.F. Handel. 'Ungrateful! wilt thou leave me?' London: C. Lonsdale, 1864; 1876. [The air 'Lascia ch'io pianga' from Handel's opera Rinaldo, previously published in Italian and French as item 42 in Pauline Viardot's Ecole classique du chant, 1861-?1891. Meyerbeer and she had adapted the piece for public performance by herself with piano accompaniment.]

1864. 12 stikhovreniy Pushkina, Feta i Turgeneva, perevedennyye F. Bodenshtedtom i polozhennyye na muzyku Polinoy Viardo-Garsia. Zwölf Gedichte von Puschkin, Feth und Turgeneff, übersetzt von Friedrich Bodenstedt [with the assistance of I.S. Turgenev] und in Musik gesetzt von Pauline Viardot-Garcia. St Petersburg: A.F. Iogansen (Johansen), 1864; 1880; 1881; 1882; 1887. [Texts in Russian and German.] 1. Tsvetok. 'Tsvetok zasokhshiy, bezukhannyy.' Das Blümlein. 'Im Buch ein Blümlein seh' ich liegen.' A.S. Pushkin. 2. Na kholmakh Gruzii. Auf Grusien's Hügeln. A.S. Pushkin. 3. Tikhaya zvëzdnaya noch'. Ruhige, heilige Nacht! A.A. Fet. 4. Polunochnyye obrazy. Mitternächtige Bilder. A.A. Fet. 5. Shëpot, robkoye dykhan'ye. Flüstern, atemscheues Lauschen. A.A. Fet. 6. Zaklinaniye. [Known also as: Syuda.] 'O, yesli pravda, chto v nochi.' Die Beschwörung. 'O wenn es wahr ist daß die [zur] Nacht.' A.S. Pushkin. 7. Sinitsa. 'Slyshu ya: zvenit sinitsa.' Die Meise. 'Wohl im Wald, im Blättergolde.' I.S. Turgenev. [Note that this song existed also in a version with violin obbligato.] 8. Dve rozy. 'Polno spat': tebe dve rozy.' Zwei Rosen. 'Schlaf nicht mehr, zwei junge Rosen.' A.A. Fet. 9. Noch'yu. 'Moy golos dlya tebya.' Des Nachts. 'Die Töne, die sich sanft.' A.S. Pushkin. 10. Uznik. ('Sizhu za reshëtkoy v temnitse syroy.') Der Gefangene. ('Ich sitz', hinterm Gitter.') A.S. Pushkin. 11. 1865. Die Sterne. 'Ich starre und stand unbeweglich.' Gedicht von Feth, übersetzt von Friedrich Bodenstedt, für eine Singstimme mit Begleitung des Pianoforte und Violoncello, komponiert von Pauline Viardot-Garcia. Tenor or soprano; baritone or mezzo-soprano. Leipzig: Breitkopf & Härtel, 1865; (and New York) ?1880. —Les Etoiles. Mélodie avec accompagnement de piano et de violoncelle ou violon obligé. Poésie russe de Feth. Traduction française de Louis Pomey. Paris:

E. Gérard & Cie, 1867; J. Hamelle, 1899. Dedicated to Sa Majesté Augusta, Reine de Prusse. [See also 1864, 12 stikhovreniy, no. 12.]

1865. Rusalka. Die Wassermann. Poem by M.Yu. Lermontov. A song composed and performed in 1865, but perhaps published only in 1868. See below, Pyat' stikhovreniy, no. 5.

1865. Das verlassene Mägdelein. Gedicht von Mörike. (La Jeune fille abandonnée.) A song composed in 1865. Publication untraced, but the undated autograph manuscript is at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz; see also the manuscript: L'Abbandonata. Mélodie pour chant et piano. Département de la Musique, Bibliothèque nationale de France. —Pauline Viardot is believed to have set twelve poems by Eduard Mörike in all; ten were ready by mid-April 1865.

?1865. Er ist's. 'Frühling lässt sein blaues Band.' Setting of a poem by Eduard Mörike. Publication untraced.

1866. Douze mélodies sur des poésies russes de Feth, Pouchkine, Tourguenoff, Lermontoff et Koltsoff. Par Madame Pauline Viardot-Garcia. Traduction de Louis Pomey. Chant et piano. Ténor ou mezzo-soprano. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, 1866. [The individual items from this selection by Gérard were also sold separately.] —Paris: J. Hamelle, no date (1899?) 1. Fleur desséchée. 'Dans ce vieux livre l'on t'oublie.' [Tsvetok.] A.S. Pushkin. (Dedicated to Maria Crétet-Garcia.) 2. La Mésange. 'Sous la feuille qui frissonne.' [Sinitsa.] I.S. Turgenev. (Dedicated to Mme Edith Brelay [née Bouron].) 3. Les Ombres de minuit. 'A mes yeux étincellent dans l'ombre.' [Polunochnyye obrazy.] A.A. Fet. (Dedicated to Camille Saint-Saëns.) 4. Berceuse cosaque. 'Dors dans les plis de mon voile.' [Kolybel'naya.] M.Yu. Lermontov. (Dedicated to Mme Constance-Caroline Faure-Lefebvre.) 5. Evocation. 'Oh! si jamais pendant la nuit.' [Zaklinaniye.] A.S. Pushkin. (Dedicated to Mme Jeanne-Julie Pomey.) 6. Chant du soir. 'Sur la cime des montagnes.' [Tikho vecher dogorayet.] A.A. Fet. (Dedicated to Mlle Aglaé Orguéni [Aglaja Orgeni].) 7. Les Deux roses. 'Lève-toi, voici l'aurore.' [Dve rozy.] A.A. Fet. (Dedicated to M. [Louis-Charles?] Jourdain.) 8. Aurore. 'Soupirs, faible voix tremblante.' [Shépot, robkoye dykhan'ye.] A.A. Fet. (Dedicated to Mlle Désirée Artôt.) 9. Géorgienne. 'Ma belle, ne dis plus tout bas.' [Ne moy, krasavitsa, pri mne.] A.S. Pushkin. (Dedicated to Enrico Delle Sedie.) 10. Le Rameau de Palestine. 'Palestine.' [Vetka Palestiny.] M.Yu. Lermontov. (Dedicated to Jules Lefort.) 11. Chanson de la fauville. 'Dis-moi, faux chérie.' [Otchego, skazhi, moy lyubimyy serp? (Grust' devushki.)] A.V. Kol'tsov. (Dedicated to Mme Marie-Caroline Vandeneuve-Duprez.) 12. L'Orage. 'Sur nos fronts le vent d'orage.' [Burya.] A.S. Pushkin. (Dedicated to M.

Archaimbault [=Eugène Archainbaud].) —Fleur desséchée. Paris: J. Hamelle, 1899. —La Mésange. Paris: J. Hamelle, 1899. —Berceuse cosaque. Paris: J. Hamelle, ?1885; 1899. —Manuscripts of several of these songs are in a private collection in Paris. [See 1864, 12 stikhotvorenij, and 1865, Desyat' stikhotvorenij.]

1866. Frühlingslied. Dichtung von C.W. Müller. Leipzig: Schuberth & Co.

1866. Märchen. ‘Waldeinsamkeit, Waldeinsamkeit!’ Dichtung von Richard Pohl. Komponiert von Pauline Viardot. See below, 1871, Shest' stikhotvorenij, no. 1. Although no publication has been traced in 1866, there is a manuscript composed this year at the Rossiyskiy gosudarstvennyy arkhiv literatury i iskusstva, Moscow, Pauline Viardot archive, no. 8, and another in a private collection.

1866. Petite suite. Pour piano, violon, tambourin et triangle. (Allegretto. Scherzo. Andantino. Tarentelle.) [Composed by Pauline Viardot for her children, this work seemingly remained unpublished.] — For the Andantino and Tarentelle, see also 1839.

?1866. Pavane. Pour piano. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, no date. [Note that a song by Pauline Viardot with this title is known to have been performed by her on 19 May 1866.]

?1867. Song perhaps composed this year to a poem by Nikolaus Lenau. See I.S. Turgenev, Pis'ma, vol. 7, p. 150. In all probability this was a setting, perhaps incomplete, of ‘Auf dem Teich, dem Regungslosen’.

1867. Marche militaire. (Militärmarsch.) Composed for and dedicated to the Queen of Prussia, March 1867. Probably not published in that year, it is said to have been scored originally for two flutes and piccolo, two oboes and two brass choirs. However, a manuscript of it at the Staatsbibliothek zu Berlin-Preußischer Kulturbesitz, Musikabteilung (Mus. ms. 22330), is dedicated actually to the King of Prussia and scored differently. —Marche militaire. Central-Partitur für die gesammte Militärmusik eingerichtet von Wilhelm Wieprecht. Berlin and Posen: Bote & Bock, 1870; 1871.

1867. Trop de femmes. Opérette en deux actes (or: Grand opéra en deux petits tableaux). Paroles de M. Tourguéneff. Musique de Mme P. Viardot. [Vocal music and piano accompaniment.] For the French libretto, see Turgenev, Sochineniya, vol. 12, pp. 7-25 (and cf. pp. 428-45). —Fragments of manuscript music for this work, first staged at Baden-Baden in August 1867, are at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz; at the Bibliothèque nationale de France, Fonds slave (Tourguenoff), no. 75; at RGALI, Moscow, f. 509 op. 4 yed. khr. 10; and in two private collections. These pieces include ‘Je suis pacha’, ‘Pour charmer les/vos nobles loisirs’, ‘L’Invocation à Mahomet’, and ‘Chanson à boire’. Harvard has the berceuse ‘Dodo, gros pacha’, and the ‘Chanson de Noix de Coco’ for voice and percussion; another version of this at Harvard, Dans la plaine de Tombouctou, was used first for the operetta Le Miroir (1869) and then for a revival of Trop de femmes in 1870. [See also ?1868 below, Gipsy rondo.]

1867. Le Dernier sorcier (or: Krakamiche [Craquemiche, Croquemiche]). Opérette fantastique en deux tableaux (or: Fantaisie en deux actes). Paroles de M. Tourguéneff. Musique de Mme P. Viardot. [Vocal music and piano accompaniment.] First staged at Baden-Baden in September 1867. —Der letzte Zauberer. Fantastische Operette in zwei Akten. 1869. (Augmented version, translated by Richard Pohl and orchestrated with the help of Eduard Lassen and—it is claimed by some—Franz Liszt.) —Der letzte Zauberer. Fantastische Operette in zwei Aufzügen von Iwan Turgenev, übersetzt von Richard Pohl. Musik von Pauline Viardot-Garcia. Riga, 1870. For the German libretto, see Russkiye propilei, vol. III, ed. M.O. Gershenson, Moscow, 1916, pp. 281-94; Turgenev, Sochineniya, vol. 12, pp. 44-84 (and see ibid., pp. 456-65, 471-5 and 478-81 for relevant French materials.) —See also below, Chœur des elfes (1899), Chanson de la pluie (1900), and Cendrillon, 1904. —The following manuscripts exist: 1. ‘Der letzte Zauberer/Le Dernier sorcier. Poème de J. Tourguenef. Musique de Pauline Viardot.’ Score for singers and piano prepared for Lassen to orchestrate, with many additions and annotations. Harvard (formerly in the Collection Le Cesne). Harvard has in addition a separate manuscript aria and other musical notations. 2. ‘Der letzte Zauberer. Oper in 2 Akten. Partition allemande [et française]. Texte d’Ivan Tourguéniev, traduit par Richard Pohl.’ Conductor’s score. Astor, Lenox & Tilden Foundation, Music Division, New York Public Library. 3. Copy of the German spoken parts, Fonds slave (Tourguenoff), no. 97, Bibliothèque nationale de France. 4. Vocal and instrumental parts, and an orchestral score of the Weimar production of 1869. Hochschule für Musik Franz Liszt, Weimar (Thüringisches Landesmusikarchiv). [See on all the above Nicholas G. Žekulin, The story of an operetta: Le Dernier sorcier by Pauline Viardot and Ivan Turgenev, Munich, 1989, especially pp. 112-47 (the French libretto).] 5. Various partial manuscripts in private collections.

1867. Six morceaux pour piano et violon, composés pour son fils Paul. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, 1867; J. Hamelle, no date. 1. Romance. 2. Bohémienne. 3. Berceuse. 4. Mazourke. 5. Vieille chanson.

6. Tarentelle. —6 morceaux pour violon et pianoforte. Cahier 1: Berceuse, Bohémienne, Vieille chanson; Cahier 2: Mazurka, Romance, Tarantella. Berlin and Posen: Bote & Bock, 1867. —Romance pour violon (avec piano). Copenhagen: Hof-Musikhandel, 1883. [Note that this was referred to at the time as Pauline Viardot's op. 6. I cannot explain why, and believe it to be the only attempt ever to apply opus numbers to her works.] —Berceuse pour violon (avec piano). Copenhagen: Hof-Musikhandel, 1883. —Manuscripts of the Romance, Mazourke and Tarentelle are at the Département de la Musique, Bibliothèque nationale de France. Note that the Berceuse at least existed in a version for solo violin, as performed in London in 1871 by Hugo Heermann, and that it may have been sketched as early as 1852 as a piano piece for Frederick Lehmann. In the 1870s the Vieille chanson existed in a version for cello and piano. —Note that when Henri Vieuxtemps and Ferencz Erkel composed a fantasy duet on this set, they referred to it as 'Six morceaux: des Airs hongrois'.

1868. L'Ogre. Conte de fées. Opérette fantastique en deux actes. Paroles de M. I. Tourguénef, musique de Mme P. Viardot. [Vocal music and piano accompaniment.] First staged at Baden-Baden on 23 May 1868. For materials connected with the original libretto, also known as L'Ecole des ogres, see Turgenev, Sochineniya, vol. 12, pp. 118-25, 486-93. —A number of drafts and sketches for various items in the operetta are held at Harvard and in private collections. —The musical extract most widely known is Chœur des fileuses ('Lorsque le soleil'; see below, 1905).

?1868. La Veillée de la Saint-Sylvestre. Operetta said to have been performed at Baden-Baden about now, of which a copy of the libretto by Turgenev and several musical numbers by Pauline Viardot remain in at least one private collection. [See Paul Viardot, Souvenirs d'un artiste, Paris, 1910, p. 17.]

1868. Überall. ('Wenn droben eine Lerche singt.') Mein alles. ('Und wär' auch der ganze Erdkreis.') Dein Bild. ('In meinen schönsten Stunden.') Abschied. ('Wie schwer es auch dem Herzen fällt.') Four pieces for 4-part chorus (soprano, contralto, tenor, bass), with words by Richard Pohl. Manuscripts at Harvard.

1868. Kol' lyubit', tak bez rassudku. Song. A setting of the short poem by A.K. Tolstoy. Manuscript at Harvard.

1868. Die Spinnerin. 'Als ich still und ruhig spann.' A song setting of a poem by Goethe. Manuscript at Harvard.

1868. Walzerlied. Song with an unknown German text, also with the French text ‘Quand le vin pétille’. Manuscript at Harvard.

1868. Pyat’ stikhovreniy Lermontova i Turgeneva, polozhennyye na muzyku Polinoyu Viardo-Garsia. St Petersburg: A.F. Iogansen (Johansen), 1868; ?1880. 1. Na zare. (‘Son ne kosnulsyia glaz moikh.’) Stated to be by I.S. Turgenev, but actually an adaptation of Eduard Mörike’s poem ‘In der Frühe’. (Dedicated to O.F. von Minckwitz.) 2. Utës. (‘Nochevala tuchka zolotaya.’) M.Yu. Lermontov. (Dedicated to Yu.F. Abaza.) 3. Razgadka. (‘Kak prilivala k serdtsu.’) Stated to be by I.S. Turgenev, but actually an adaptation of ‘Räthsel’, by Richard Pohl (see 1870). (Dedicated to Ye.A. Lavrovskaya.) 4. Razluka. (‘O razluka, razluka!’) Stated to be by I.S. Turgenev, but perhaps translated by him from an unidentified German or other original. (Dedicated to A.A. Khvostova, afterwards Polyakova.) 5. Rusalka. (‘Rusalka plyla po reke goluboy.’) M.Yu. Lermontov. (Dedicated to A.V. Klemm.) —A manuscript of no. 2 is at Harvard.

?1868. Gipsy rondo. For two sopranos and chorus, with English words by Henry Fothergill Chorley. [Nothing can be said for certain about this piece, first performed in London on 29 April 1868. According to the Athenaeum of 20 November 1869, p. 670, it came from ‘Trop de femmes’. However, it was probably first written for another planned Viardot-Turgenev operetta called ‘Les Bohémiens’, of which only a brief scenario survives, but whose second ‘tableau’ was to include a ‘ronde à boire’ sung by the Viardot daughters and a chorus of gipsies. As the Gipsy rondo had a tambourine accompaniment, it may perhaps have been related to 1899, Chœur bohémien, below.]

?1868. Nocturne. Duo. This may have been an adaptation from Chopin. See I.S. Turgenev, Pis’ma, vol. 8, p. 153. [A.S. Rozanov maintains that Pauline Viardot very probably set to words three of Chopin’s Nocturnes—op. 9 no. 1, op. 15 no. 1, and op. 62 no. 1—as well as part of the Ballade op. 38, and the ‘Berceuse’ in D flat major, op. 57. According to another source, one should add to this the Prelude op. 28, no. 20.]

?1868. Um Mitternacht. ‘Gelassen stieg die Nacht an’s Land.’ Poem by Eduard Mörike. A song composed and performed by Pauline Viardot as from this year, no publication of which has been traced; a partial transcript by her of the text only is at Harvard.

?1868. Jung Volkers Lied. ‘Und die mich trug im Mutterarm.’ Poem by Eduard Mörike. A song performed by Pauline Viardot at this period, and which is perhaps by her. Publication untraced. There could be confusion with the work of this title by Robert Schumann.

1869. Dva romansa na slova Gëte i Ye. Tyurkesti [sic] v perevode I.S. Turgeneva. Muzyka Poliny Viardo-Garsia. St Petersburg: A.F. Iogansen (Johansen), 1869; ?1887. 1. Pered sudom. ‘Pod serdtsem moim ch’ë ditya ya noshu.’ [Translation of Goethe’s ‘Vor Gericht’ (‘Von wem ich es habe, das sag’ ich euch nicht’).] 2. Noch’ i den’. ‘Uzhe begut nochnyye grëzy.’ [Turquety, ‘Vois-tu la nuit’; see above, 1843, Album, no. 7.]

1869. Le Miroir. Opérette en deux actes. Words by Turgenev, music by Pauline Viardot. Apart from the manuscript song at Harvard Dans la plaine de Tombouctou (see above under Trop de femmes, 1867), and a partial manuscript in a private collection of Viens sur mon cœur, ma Léila [sic for Dilara] chérie, there seems to be no trace of the music for this operetta, but its libretto is known and it was doubtless staged once or twice in 1869.

?1869. Rondeña. ‘Serás dueña de mi vida.’ Arrangement of a Spanish popular song. (Dedicated to Emil Naumann.) Probably unpublished. Manuscripts at Bayerische Staatsbibliothek, Mus. ms. app. 1264, and Universitätsbibliothek Johann Christian Senckenberg, Frankfurt-am-Main, Mus. Hs. 515. [The first library posits the approximate date as 1880, the other as the second third of the 19th century; the late 1860s seem to suit best.]

1870. Räthsels. Gedicht von Richard Pohl. ‘In deinen Augen schlummert.’ Für eine Singstimme mit Begleitung des Pianoforte. (Dedicated to Herr [Hans Feodor] von Milde.) Leipzig and Weimar: Robert Seitz, 1870. —Berlin: Ries & Erler, no date. —L’Enigme. Räthsel. Poésie de Richard Pohl, adaptation française de Paul Collin. Paris: au Ménestrel (Heugel), 1884. [See 1868, Pyat’ stikhovorenij, no. 3, and 1882, Six mélodies, no. 4.]

1870. Der Gärtner. Gedicht von Eduard Mörike. ‘Auf ihrem Leibrößlein.’ Für eine Singstimme mit Begleitung des Pianoforte. Leipzig and Weimar: Robert Seitz, 1870. —Berlin: Ries & Erler, no date. —This and the following two items were also sold together as Drei Lieder auf Texte von Eduard Mörike. —Manuscript: Der Gärtner. ‘Auf ihrem Leibrößlein.’ Lied von Mörike. Musik von Pauline Viardot. For Mme [Rosa] de Milde. Song for mezzo-soprano with piano accompaniment. New York Public Library. —Another manuscript of Der Gärtner is in a private collection in Paris. [See also below, 1871, Shest' stikhovreniy, no. 3; 1904, Elle passe!]

1870. In der Frühe. Gedicht von Eduard Mörike. ‘Kein Schlaf noch kühlt das Auge mir.’ Für eine Singstimme mit Begleitung des Pianoforte. Leipzig and Weimar: Robert Seitz, 1870. —Berlin: Ries & Erler, no date. [See above, 1868, Pyat' stikhovreniy, no. 1.]

1870. Nixe Binsefuß. ‘Des Wassermanns sein Töchterlein.’ Gedicht von Eduard Mörike. Für eine Singstimme mit Begleitung des Pianoforte. (Dedicated to Fräulein Aglaja Orgeni.) Leipzig and Weimar: Robert Seitz, 1870. —Berlin: Ries & Erler, no date. —The copy of this song in the Women Composers Collection at the University of Michigan includes an English text written in afterwards. The original work was composed apparently in 1868.

1870. Anliegen. ‘O schönes Mädchen du.’ Poem by Goethe. A song composed this year but published only in 1880 (as Ständchen in Vier Lieder); it also had a Russian and a French adaptation by Turgenev (‘Na tvoy balkon’ and ‘Belle aux cheveux de jais’). —Manuscript at Harvard.

?1870. Die traurige Krönung. Gedicht von Mörike. ‘Es war ein König Milesint.’ This song apparently exists only in manuscript, marked ‘no. 5’ as if it (and of course a no. 4) were perhaps to have followed on after the Drei Lieder mentioned above under Der Gärtner. [See Lisa Cox Music catalogue no. 46 (2004), item 128.]

1871. Shest' stikhovreniy G. Geyne, E. Mörike i R. Polya, perevedennyye na russkiyazyk I. Turgenevym i polozhennyye na muzyku Polinoyu Viardo-Garsia. St Petersburg: A.F. Logansen (Johansen), 1871; ?1877. [Both the Russian and the original German words are printed.] 1. Lesnaya tish'. Märchen (‘Waldeinsamkeit, Waldeinsamkeit!’) By Richard Pohl. 2. Zagublennaya zhizn'. (‘Glyadit na zakat ona solntsa.’) Verfehltes Leben. (‘Sie schaut nach der sinkenden Sonne.’) By Richard Pohl. 3. Sadovnik. (‘Verkhom na loshadke.’) Der Gärtner. (‘Auf ihrem Leibrößlein.’) By Eduard Mörike. 4. Ozhidaniye. (‘On dom seychas pokinul moy.’) Allein. (‘Still schau’ ich in die Nacht hinaus.’) By Richard Pohl. 5. Byloye schast'ye. (‘Schast'ya dni! kak skoro vy.’) Agnes (‘Rosenzeit! wie schnell vorbei.’) By Eduard Mörike. 6. Chto za pogoda zlaya. [Or: Stoit pogoda zlaya.] Das ist ein schlechtes Wetter. By Heinrich Heine.

?1871. L'Enfant. ‘Un enfant de quatre ans.’ Song. Manuscript at Harvard. [Dated London 5 April, this could belong only to 1839, 1841 or 1871, and the present year seems most likely for its subject.]

?1871. La Soirée perdue. Vocal ‘saynète’ (short drawing-room operetta), to a libretto by Marie Dumas adapted from the work of this title by Alfred de Musset. Composed perhaps in London during the spring and early summer of 1871, the piece was apparently first performed there only on 21 June 1872. [A manuscript of it dated 1873 is at the Bibliothèque nationale de France, N.a.f. 24664, ff. 323-33. See also e.g. Musical World, 10 June 1871, p. 357, 29 June 1872, p. 415; Era, 30 June 1872, p. 12 col. d; Le Ménestrel, 14 July 1872, p. 271.]

1873. Introduction et polonaise. Pour piano à quatre mains. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, 1873; 1874. [This existed also in a version for two hands.]

1873. Cinquante mélodies de Franz Schubert. Traduites par Louis Pomey avec annotations et sous la direction de Mme Pauline Viardot. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, 1873. —Franz Schubert. Cinquante mélodies, choisies, revues et annotées par Mme Pauline Viardot-Garcia. Texte original allemand et traduction française de Louis Pomey et Victor Wilder. Paris: J. Hamelle, c. 1890. [Wilder's role in the later edition was doubtless to revise or embellish Pomey's French translations. Note that in her preface Pauline Viardot stated that the guidance given to singers in the scores related more specifically to these French versions than to the original German texts.]

1874. Pyat' stikhovreniy Göte, Pushkina, Mörike, Geybelya i Polya, polozhennyye na muzyku Polinoyu Viardo-Garsia. Fünf Gedichte von Goethe, Puschkin, Mörike, Geibel und Pohl, in Musik gesetzt von Pauline Viardot-Garcia. St Petersburg: A.F. Iogansen (Johansen), 1874; ?1880. —Fünf Gedichte... Leipzig: Breitkopf & Härtel, 1884. [The German poems in this collection were translated into Russian by I.S. Turgenev, who also rendered the Pushkin into German.] 1. Slepets. ('Po zhiznennomu polyu.') Der Nachtwandler. ('Mein Leib ist wie gefesselt.') By Richard Pohl. (Dedicated to O.A. Petrov.) 2. Finskaya pesnya. ('Lish' by milyy vorotilsya.') Finnisches Lied ('Käm' der liebe Wohlbekannte'). By Goethe. (Dedicated to A.A. Polyakova.) 3. Yunosha i deva. ('Yunoshu, gor'ko rydaya.') Der Jüngling und das Mädchen. ('Bitterlich weinte das Mädchen.') By A.S. Pushkin. (Dedicated to Ye.A. Lavrovskaya.) 4. Soldatskaya nevesta. ('Soldat udaloy moy zhenikh!') Die Soldatenbraut. ('Ach! wenn's nur der König auch wusst.') By Eduard Mörike. (Dedicated to Henriette Nissen-Saloman.) 5. Vesenniy vecher. ('Vesenniy vlazhnny vecher.') Im April. ('Du feuchter Frühlingsabend.') By Emanuel von Geibel. (Dedicated to N.A. Iretskaya.) —Drafts of nos 2 and 3 are at Harvard, and German manuscripts of no. 5 are in a private collection in Paris and at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. —See also 1880, Vier Lieder.

1874. Sonatine pour piano et violon. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, 1874. [A partial manuscript of this exists in a private collection.]

piano par Mme Pauline Viardot. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, 1875. Ténor ou soprano. [The original Spanish texts are printed separately, without distinguishing titles.] 1. Jalousie. ('Je voudrais te croire.' 'Quéquieres Panchito qué me piense yo?') Dedicated to Mme George Sand. 2. La Fleur du vallon. ('Gentille fauvette.' 'Sueltas avecillas.') Dedicated to Mme Artôt de Padilla. 3. Floris. ('Sous ta noire mantille.' 'A la feria va Floris.') Dedicated to Mme [Antonia] Léonard. 4. Silence! ('Silence, hirondelle!' 'Parad Avecillas.') Dedicated to Mariano de Padilla. 5. La Barque de l'amour. ('Gare! gare! gare! gare! Du plaisir du plaisir qui t'appelle.' 'Bío! bío! bío! bío! que mi tambolo tengo en el río.') Dedicated to Mlle Anita de Wheelock. 6. Le Courrier. ('Des courriers voilà le roi.' 'Este sí que es corredor.') Dedicated to Lorenzo Pagans. [Some believe that this collection was first published around 1868, but I have found no evidence for that. It is worth adding that the Spanish songs 'Ay, ay, ay' and 'El riqui-riqui', often performed by Pauline Viardot and sometimes thought of as her own, were actually by her father also.]

1875. Trois valses de Franz Schubert, transcrites et arrangées pour deux voix et piano par Pauline Viardot. (Dédicées à ses filles [Claudie et Marianne].) Paroles de Louis Pomey. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, 1875; 1879. —Paris: J. Hamelle, ?1890. 1. Le Printemps. 'Filles, garçons, honneur de nos hameaux.' [D.783, no. 1.] 2. Tes yeux. 'La rose nouvelle dans tes noirs cheveux.' [D.969, no. 9.] 3. Dansez fillettes. 'Vite, vite, vite, accourez près de nous.' [D.783, no. 6.] —Three waltzes by Franz Schubert. Transcribed and arranged for two voices by Pauline Viardot. Adapted to English words by J.H. Cornell. New York: G. Schirmer, ?1889. 1. Spring-time. 2. Autumn. 3. Dance, young maidens. —Tvoi ochi. Val's Shuberta. St Petersburg: V. Bessel', no date. [According to A.S. Rozanov, the English versions of these waltzes were published also in Britain (at Chester?), and the subject of the second one (Autumn) was not related to that of Tes yeux. Lydia Torrigi-Heiroth maintained that Pauline Viardot made vocal arrangements of six Schubert waltzes in all. Some manuscript sketches of the three known ones exist in a private collection.]

1876. La Jota [de los estudiantes]. Sérénade des étudiants. ('O belle qui sous ton voile.') Duo espagnol arrangé par Mme Pauline Viardot. Paroles [françaises] de Louis Pomey. Paris: E. Gérard & Cie, 1876. —Heugel, ?1890. [Also known as La Serenada de los estudiantes.]

?1876. Capriccio all'ungarese. Perhaps unpublished vocal duet with piano accompaniment, performed by Pauline Viardot's daughters Claudie and Marianne (for instance on 15 May 1877 and, in Spanish, on 27 April 1882); known also as Duo dans le style hongrois.

?1876. La gallina. Air mexicain. ‘La vecina de allí enfrente.’ Perhaps unpublished vocal trio with piano accompaniment, performed by Pauline Viardot with her daughters Clémence and Marianne (for instance on 10 May 1877). —Manuscripts at Harvard, at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, and in a private collection.

1878. Canti popolari toscani. Musica di Pauline Viardot. (Narodnyye toskanskiye pesni. Muzyka Poliny Viardo.) St Petersburg: A.F. Iogansen (Johansen), 1878. 1. Serenata fiorentina. ‘Vado di notte e vado a passeggiare.’ (Florentiyskaya serenada.) 2. C’era una volta che con voi parlavo. (Byvalo, ya s tobouy govorila.) (Dedicated to Mlle Alexandrine Panaeff [Aleksandra Valerianovna Panayeva-Kartsova].) 3. Non vi maravigliate, giovinotti. (Ne udivlyaytes’.) (Dedicated to Mlle Lydie de Heiroth.) 4. Povera me, che non pensavo al fine. (Bednyazhka ya!) (Dedicated to Mlle Aimée Albini.) 5. L’innamorata. ‘Son innamorata di due giovinotti.’ (Vlyublennaya. ‘Po dvum krasivym parnyam.’) (Dedicated to Mme Désirée Artôt de [sic] Padilla.) [The individual items were also sold separately.] —Fünf toskanische Gedichte für eine Singstimme mit Pianoforte. Leipzig: Breitkopf & Härtel, 1879.

1. Florentinisches Ständchen. ‘Nächtliche Schleier rings die Erde decken.’ (Serenata fiorentina.) 2. Die Verlassene. ‘Einst führte dich das Schicksal mir entgegen.’ (C’era una volta.) 3. Die Dorfsängerin. ‘Ich kann, ihr Freunde, ach, nicht besser.’ (Non vi maravigliate.) 4. Die Unglückliche. ‘O weh’ mir Armen!’ (Povera me.) (Dedicated to Frau [Maria Schröder] Hanfstängl.) 5. Doppel-Liebe. ‘Hab’ zwei Geliebten, möchte fast mich schämen!’ (L’innamorata.) —Poésies toscanes. (Canti popolari toscani.) Paroles françaises de Mr Louis Pomey. 5 numéros. Paris: E. Gérard, 1881; 1889. 1. Sérénade florentine. ‘J’erre sans trêve à l’heure où tout repose.’ (Serenata fiorentina.) (Dedicated to Félix Lévy.) 2. Reproches. ‘Vous me parliez jadis.’ (C’era una volta.) (Dedicated to Mme Marthe Duvivier.) 3. La Chanson villageoise. ‘Vous paraissez surpris.’ (Non vi maravigliate; dedicated to Mlle Lidie de Torrigi.) 4. L’Affligée. ‘Malheur à moi.’ (Povera me.) (Dedicated to Mme [Blanche] Boidin-Puisais.) 5. Indécision. ‘Pour cette fois suis-je assez malheureuse?’ (L’innamorata.) (Dedicated to Mlle Bianca Bianchi.) —Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz; manuscripts of Non vi maravigliate and C’era una volta are in a private collection in Paris. —Although in some cases she modernised them, Pauline Viardot drew the texts for her various series of Canti popolari toscani from the collection of that title by Giuseppe Tigri, first published at Florence in 1856.

1878. Tsvetok. ‘Uvyal tsvetok.’ Text by or translated by I.

Kalashnikov. [Perhaps Ivan Timofeyevich Kalashnikov (1797-1863).] Contribution to the Sbornik 25 lyubimykh romansov inostrannykh kompozitorov. Recueil des vingt-cinq romances préférées des compositeurs étrangers. St Petersburg: M. Bernard, 1878; 1887. [See also ?1880, O débile fleur du vallon.]

1879. La Calandrina ou la Marchande d'oiseaux. Arietta tirée du Parataglio [Il Parataio] de Niccolò Jommelli (1750); traduction française de Victor Wilder. Chantée par Mlle Marianne Viardot et variée pour elle par Mme Pauline Viardot. ‘Chi vuol comprar la bella calandrina?’ Paris: au Ménestrel (Heugel), 1879.

?1880s. Echos d'Italie. Edition revue et annotée par Mme P. Viardot-Garcia. 6 vols, Paris: Durand-Schœnewerk & Cie, no date. —A. Durand & fils, no date. [A new edition of a work previously published by Gustave-Alexandre Flaxland, under the editorship of Lorenzo Pagans. Note that some repositories list the volumes in a different order.]

- I. Airs, romances, ariettes et duettinos, suivis de quatre chansons espagnoles.
- II. Airs, romances, ariettes et duettinos, suivis de chansons napolitaines.
- III. Cavatines célèbres.
- IV. Trios, quatuors et quintettes, suivis d'un trio espagnol.
- V. Duos.
- VI. Les maîtres italiens des XVII^{me} et XVIII^{me} siècles.

1880. Franz Josef Haydn. Canzonetta de concert, tirée du 17ème quatuor de J. Haydn. Transcrite pour la voix par Mme Pauline Viardot. Paroles françaises de Mr Louis Pomey. ‘La nuit monte, tiède et sombre.’ ‘Già la notte s’avvicina.’ Ténor ou soprano; baryton ou mezzo-soprano. (Dedicated to Marianne Duvernoy.) [Andante cantabile, op. 3, no. 5, the ‘Serenade’, actually by Roman Hofstetter?] Paris: Heugel & fils, 1880. —Night is falling. (Già la notte.) ‘La nuit monte.’ Canzonetta. Music by Joseph Haydn, arranged by Pauline Viardot. French words by Louis Pomey. For alto or baritone. New York: G. Schirmer, 1888; c. 1942. —Kantsonetta... Translated by E. Orlova. St Petersburg: Bessel’, 1891. —A manuscript of Pauline Viardot’s Canzonetta arrangement is at the Bayerische Staatsbibliothek. [According to an American source the work was first published in 1845, but that seems improbable.]

?1880. O débile fleur du vallon. Unpublished song, with words stated to be by Alexandre Dumas but no doubt translated from V.A. Zhukovsky’s Tsvetok (itself adapted from Charles Millevoye). The poem appears in French in Xavier Marmier’s Voyage en Suisse (Paris, 1862, pp. 347-8), and in La Semaine des enfants (21 July 1869, p. 254).

Manuscripts at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz and in a private collection. —Perhaps originally intended to form part of Six mélodies et une havanaise, below, but perhaps the same as 1878, Tsvetok, above.

?1880. En dix ans. ‘Dans dix ans d’ici seulement.’ Unpublished and possibly unfinished song, with words from the Rondeau by Alfred de Musset. Partial manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. Perhaps originally intended to form part of Six mélodies et une havanaise, below.

1880. Six mélodies et une havanaise variée à deux voix. Poésies de MM. Théophile Gautier, Xavier de Maistre, Louis Pomey, Henry Charles Read, Armand Silvestre et Victor Wilder. Paris: Heugel & fils, 1880; 1882; ?1890. 1. La Main. ‘J’aime la blancheur de la main.’ Paroles de Henry Charles Read. Ténor ou soprano; baryton ou mezzo-soprano. 2. Dernier aveu. ‘Voilà longtemps que je vous aime!’ Poésie de Théophile Gautier. Baryton ou mezzo-soprano. 3. J’en mourrai! ‘J’en mourrai! j’en mourrai de ton parjure.’ Morirò. Poésie toscane. Paroles françaises de Victor Wilder. Ténor ou soprano; baryton ou mezzo-soprano. 4. Haï-luli! [From the Russian Ay lyuli!] ‘Je suis triste, je m’inquiète.’ Poésie de Xavier de Maistre. Soprano ou ténor. 5. Gentilles hirondelles. ‘Oiseaux légers, gentilles hirondelles.’ Potessi diventar, poésie toscane. Paroles françaises de Victor Wilder. [Perhaps actually by Louis Pomey.] Ténor ou soprano. 6. Chanson mélancolique. ‘Nous avons passé, ce me semble.’ Poésie d’Armand Silvestre. Ténor ou soprano. [7.] Havanaise. Thème populaire, varié pour voix de soprano. ‘Sur la rive le flot d’argent.’ Paroles françaises de Louis Pomey. [All these items were also sold separately, and existed in versions for other types or combinations of voice, as is illustrated in what follows below. In performance no. 3 sometimes had a violin accompaniment.] —Havanaise, thème populaire. Habanera, tema popular. ‘Vente, niña, conmigo al mar.’ Variée pour voix de contralto. Paris: Heugel & fils, 1880. —Havanaise. Variée à deux voix égales. Paris, 1880. —Havanaise. Chanson à une voix et duo. Paris, no date. —A manuscript of Chanson mélancolique and an Italian manuscript of Gentilles hirondelles are in a private collection in Paris; a manuscript of Potessi diventar is also at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. —For Russian versions of nos 3 and 5, see below (1880), Stikhotvoreniya Geybelya, etc., nos 50 and 47.

1880. Vier Lieder für eine Singstimme mit Begleitung des Pianoforte. Berlin and Posen: E. Bote & G. Bock, 1880. 1. Ständchen. ‘O schönes Mädchen du.’ [Goethe, Anliegen.] 2. Die Soldatenbraut. ‘Ach! wenn’s nur der König auch wüsst.’ [Mörike.] 3. Verfehltes Leben. ‘Sie schaut nach der sinkenden Sonne.’ [Pohl.] 4. Der Nachtwandler. ‘Mein Leib ist wie gefesselt.’ [Pohl.] [See 1870, Anliegen; 1871, Shest’ stikhotvoreniy, Zagublennaya zhizn'; 1874, Pyat' stikhovoreniy, Soldatskaya nevesta and Slepets.]

1880. Une heure d'étude. Exercices pour voix de femme, écrits pour ses élèves par Mme Pauline Viardot. Adoptés au Conservatoire national de musique. [Two series, respectively 38 and 64pp.] Paris: au Ménestrel (Heugel & fils), 1880 and 1882. —Paris: Heugel et Cie, 2 séries, 1896. —Gesangsunterricht. Une heure d'étude. Übungen für die Frauenstimme. Für ihre Schülerinnen verfasst von Pauline Viardot-Garcia. Deutsch von Ferdinand Gumbert [Teil 1] und Románka Becker [Teil 2]. Berlin: E. Bote & G. Bock, 1881; ?1905. —An hour of study: exercises for the medium of the voice, by Mme Pauline Viardot. Adopted by the National Conservatorium of Paris. 2 vols, New York: G. Prinyaty kak rukovodstvo Parizhskoy konservatoriyyey. Two series, Moscow: A. Gutkhey' (Gutheil), 1892; 1918; 1926; 1967. [In 1904 it was announced that a third volume of Une heure d'étude had been completed, but I have not traced this. (See Musical Standard, 8 October 1904, p. 233.) See also Louise Héritte-Viardot. Etudes d'artistes, faisant suite à Une heure d'étude de Pauline Viardot. 2 vols, Paris: au Ménestrel, 1924.]

1880. Stikhovoreniya Geybelya, [Geyne], Göte, Kol'tsova, Lermontova, Mërike, Polya, Pushkina, Turgeneva, Tyurketi, Tyutcheva i Feta, polozhennyye na muzyku dlya peniya s akkompanementom fortepiano Polinoyu Viardo-Garsia. St Petersburg: A.F. Iogansen (Johansen), 1880; 1882; 1887. [Under this title the publisher reassembled all the pieces by Pauline Viardot issued by him previously, together with the following new items which she had very probably written earlier but set aside.] 46. Canti popolari toscani. E che t'ho fatto, dolce anima mia? Pered tobou chem ya provinilas'? 47. Potessi diventar. Khotela by byt' ya ptashechkoyu maloy. [Gentilles hirondelles.] 48. Canti popolari toscani. Vò pianger tanto. Khochu ya plakat'? 49. Canti popolari toscani. Il barchettino. (Faremo un barchettino in mezzo al mare.) Na lodochnu my syadem udaluyu. 50. Morirò. Ya umru. [J'en mourrai.] 51. Vot zerkalo moë. A.S. Pushkin. 52. Nochnoy zefir. Ispanskiy romans. A.S. Pushkin. 53. Staryy muzh, groznyy muzh. [Zemfira's song from Tsygany.] A.S. Pushkin. 54. Voron k voronu letit. Shotlandskaya pesnya. A.S. Pushkin. —A manuscript of no. 52 is in a private collection, in Russian and French (Romance espagnole); manuscripts of nos 46 and 48 are at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. —For the French versions of nos 47 and 50, see above, Six mélodies (1880), nos 5 and 3; for that of no. 51, see below, Six mélodies (1882), no. 5.

1881. Akh! my gornykh kazachek. Contribution to: Lira. Sobraniye ariy, kavatin i romansov. Lyre. Recueil d'airs, de cavatines et de romances. St Petersburg: V. Bessel', 1881. [Apparently an arrangement of a Brahms Hungarian dance.]

?1882. Chasovoy. ('Polnoch'. Zlaya stuzha.') La Sentinelle. Setting of a poem by I.Z. Surikov. Sent to A.F. Iogansen (Johansen) in 1882, this song was perhaps never published. See I.S Turgenev's letter to A.V. Toporov, 7/19 December 1882.

1882. Six mélodies. Deuxième série. Paris: au Ménestrel (H. Heugel), 1882; 1883. 1. Sylvie. 'Voici les lieux charmants.' Paroles de Nicolas Boileau. 2. Berceuse. 'Enfant, si tu dors.' Paroles d'Auguste de Châtillon. 3. Sérénade. 'Sur le balcon où tu te penches.' Paroles de Théophile Gautier. 4. L'Enigme. 'Une énigme est cachée.' 'In deinen Augen schlummert.' [Räthsel.] Paroles de Richard Pohl; adaptation française de Paul Collin. 5. Le Miroir. [Vot zerkalo moë.] 'O toi qui tiens les cieux.' Paroles de Pouchkine, traduites par Victor Wilder.

6. Insomnie. [Stikhi, sochinennyye noch'yu vo vremya bessonitsy.] Paroles de Pouchkine, traduites par Paul Collin. [The individual items were also sold separately, in editions for tenor or soprano and for baritone or mezzo-soprano/ contralto.] —Manuscripts of Sérénade and Le Miroir are in a private collection in Paris; one of Berceuse is at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. —For no. 4, see 1870, Räthsel; for no. 5, see 1880, Stikhovoreniya Geybelya, etc., no. 51; for no. 6, see 1865, Desyat' stikhovoreniy, no. 2.

1883. 'Ombrà mai fù.' 'O bois épais, ombre sereine.' Aria nell'opera Serse di Haendel/Air de Serse de Haendel, arrangé avec accompagnement de piano et avec violoncelle ou violon par Mme Pauline Viardot. Paris: Heugel et fils, 1883. [Handel's so-called 'Largo', from Serse (Xerxes).] —Aria de Haendel, Paris, ?1890. —A manuscript of the violin-accompanied version of this item is at the University of Michigan.

1885. Deux pièces pour piano. Paris: Henri Heugel, 1885.
1. Gavotte. 2. Sérénade. —The Gavotte was published first by Le Ménestrel on 27 September 1885. A manuscript of it, dated 1884, is at Harvard. Note that the work existed also as a duet.

1885. Si vous demourez longuement, mon amy. Chanson du XVe siècle. Unpublished song. Manuscripts in a private collection and at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, one dated 18 May 1885. Medieval text from Chansons du XVe siècle, published by Gaston Paris: see 1886.

1885. Las! que feray je, desollée? Chanson du XVe siècle.
 Unpublished song. Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, dated 20 May 1885. Medieval text from Chansons du XVe siècle, published by Gaston Paris: see 1886.

1885. Et j'ay eu des lettres vrayment que mon amy m'envoye. (J'ai reçu des lettres ce soir.) Paroles [modernes] de Louis Pomey, d'après une poésie du XVe siècle. Unpublished song. Manuscripts in a private collection and at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, one dated Paris, 15 August 1885. Medieval text from Chansons du XVe siècle, published by Gaston Paris: see 1886.

1885. Vray Dieu d'amours, confortés moy. Chanson du XVe siècle.
 Unpublished song. Manuscripts in a private collection and at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, one dated Bougival, 23 August 1885.
 Medieval text from Chansons du XVe siècle, published by Gaston Paris: see 1886.

?1885. Ne renvoyez plus, mon amy. (Ne m'envoyez plus, mon ami.) Chanson du XVe siècle. Song. Several manuscripts at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. Medieval text from Chansons du XVe siècle, published by Gaston Paris: see 1886.

1885. Epitaphe, 1604. Reçoy, reçoy mon cœur. Unpublished song.
 Manuscript and sketch at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz; dated at Chaville, Seine-et-Oise, 1885. The text is a sonnet by Gilles du Couldrier, seigneur de Houville, inscribed on the grave of his 19-year-old daughter Charlotte at Saint-Sulpice-de-Favières (Seine-et-Oise), 10 March 1604.

1886. Six chansons du XVe siècle, avec le texte original et une adaptation moderne de Louis Pomey. Pour chant et piano. Paris: Henri Heugel, 1886. [The medieval words, but not of course the music, are taken from Chansons du XVe siècle, publiées d'après le manuscrit de la Bibliothèque nationale de Paris par Gaston Paris et accompagnées de la musique transcrise en notation moderne par Auguste Gevaert, Paris: Firmin-Didot et Cie, 1875.] 1. Aimez-moi ma mignonne. ‘En regardant vo gracieulx maintien.’ (‘En regardant ce front plein de candeur.’)
 2. Vous parlez mal de mon ami. (On a dit mal de mon amy.) 3. Chanson de l'Infante, de l'espagnol. (‘La reine était languissante.’) Canción de la Infanta. (‘Hablando estaba la reina.’) 4. Le Roussignolet. ‘Il est venu, le petit oysillon.’ (‘Aux premiers temps de la belle saison.’) Avec accompagnement de flûte. 5. Ladinderindine. A deux voix. 6. Les Trois belles demoiselles. ‘Delà la rivière sont les trois gentes damoiselles.’ (‘Où vont-elles tout là-bas, les trois belles demoiselles?’) A trois voix. — Heugel later republished these songs individually. No. 4 then carried the title: Le Roussignolet. Avec partie de flûte obligée, and no. 5: Ladinderindine, vieille chanson à deux voix. —Manuscripts of nos 2 and 4 are at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz; a manuscript and the soprano part of no. 6 are at Harvard; and sketches for nos 1 and 6 exist in a private collection. —Les Trois belles demoiselles. Chœur [à trois voix]. Adaptation moderne de Louis Pomey. (Sans accompagnement.) Paris: Heugel, 1932. —The three fair maids. New York: G. Schirmer, c. 1910. [See also 1889, Seulette; 1899, Au jardin de mon père; 1905, En douleur et tristesse; Miscellaneous and undatable mss (two items). Numbered documents at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, some listed under 1885 above, lead one to suppose that Pauline Viardot originally wanted a larger group of 15th-century songs, or perhaps further groups of six.]

1886. Six airs italiens du XVIIIe siècle. Auteurs inconnus. Traduction française de Louis Pomey. Accompagnement, harmonie et variations de Pauline Viardot. Pour ténor ou soprano et piano. Paris: Henri Heugel, 1886. —Pour baryton ou mezzo-soprano et piano. Paris: Henri Heugel, 1887. 1. Que l'on médise d'elle. Ma faccia quel che vuol. 2. Cruel, ta perfidie. Il cor che tu togliesti. 3. O pauvre âme! Spiri pure. 4. Songes, songes comme un miroir fidèle. Apri, apri. 5. Dites, que faut-il faire? Fingo per mio diletto. 6. Plus d'espérance! ('Jour de colère, je désespère.') Son desperato. [The individual items were also sold separately. According to an American source this collection was first published in 1845, but that seems impossible. A manuscript of no. 3 is at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. Harvard and a private collection in Paris have manuscripts of no. 5, as 'Dimmelo caro ben', dated 1884. All but no. 5 in this set are arrangements of pieces contained in a bound volume given to Pauline Viardot by Fortunato Santini in 1840, and which is now at the Hargrove Music Library, Berkeley.] —Dites, que faut-il faire? Air italien du XVIIIe siècle. Harmonisé et varié par Pauline Viardot. Paris: Heugel, no date. —[The same.] Orchestrirt von W. Mühlfeld. 1888. [An orchestral arrangement of 'Dites, que faut-il faire?', performed at Mainz in 1888 but probably unpublished. Harvard has a related manuscript.]

1886. Désespoir. 'Prends ce fer, frappe-moi.' Poésie de Louis Pomey. (Dedicated to Mme [Adèle] Franck-Duvernoy.) Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, 1886. —Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

1886. Lamento. ('Ma belle amie est morte.') Poésie de Théophile Gautier. (Dedicated to Mme Evelyn Enoch.) Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, 1886. —Manuscript advertised in Lisa Cox catalogue, no. 39 (2001), item 122. —Lamento was apparently also played as a violoncello solo, unless there is confusion here with a composition by Paul Viardot. [This song is also known to some as 'Sur les lagunes', because that is the title given to it in the famous setting by Berlioz. Gautier's original poem was called 'Lamento. La chanson du pêcheur'—a title used by Gounod and Fauré in their versions of the piece.]

1886. Mignonne. 'Mignonne, allons voir si la rose.' Poésie de Pierre de Ronsard. Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, 1886. —Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

1886. Les Bohémiennes, pour une voix avec accompagnement de piano. Arrangement d'après les Danses hongroises de Brahms. Paroles françaises de Victor Wilder. 'Ah! plus vagabondes que les chèvres.' Paris: J. Hamelle, 1886; 1899. [Ungarische Tänze, no. 6, also part of no. 5.] —Les Bohémiennes. Duo pour deux voix [et piano]. D'après les Danses hongroises de Joh. Brahms par Mme Pauline Viardot. Paroles françaises de Victor Wilder. Paris: J. Hamelle, no date. —Les Bohémiennes. Duo ou chœur [pour soprano et mezzo-soprano]. D'après les danses hongroises de Johannes Brahms. Edition de salon (sans vocalises). Paris: J. Hamelle, 1910. —Note that some French editions also carried a Spanish text: Ay! El amor de mi mozuela. —Johannes Brahms. The gipsies. Duet for soprano and mezzo-soprano. Arranged by Mme P. Viardot. [Note that the University of Texas Sheet Music Collection dates this 1883.] —Zigeunerlied. (Gipsey [sic] Song.) 'Wir leben nur von heut auf morgen.' 'We live today.' Deutsche Übersetzung von Frau O. Malybrok-Stieler. Duett für zwei Singstimmen nach einem der Ungarischen Tänze von Johannes Brahms, arrangiert mit Begleitung des Pianoforte von Pauline Viardot. English version by Mrs John P. Morgan. Berlin: N. Simrock, 1886. —Vengerskiye tantsy. Tsyganki. Duet dlya dvukh soprano s fortepiano. 'My tochno kozochki rezvimsya.' Russian translation by A.A. Gorchakova. St Petersburg: V. Bessel', ?1886. —Moscow: A. Gutkheyel' (Gutheil), 1887; 1929.

?1886. Les Cavaliers. Duo pour deux voix [et piano]. D'après les Danses hongroises de Joh. Brahms par Mme Viardot. Paroles de Louis Pomey. 'Ma sœur, as-tu vu?' Paris: J. Hamelle, ?1886. [Ungarische Tänze, no. 7.] —Paris: G. Miran, 1904. —Vengerskiye tantsy. Vsadniki. Duet dlya dvukh soprano s fortepiano. Russian translation by A.A. Gorchakova. St Petersburg: V. Bessel', ?1886. —Moscow: A. Gutkheyel' (Gutheil), 1887.

1887. Six mélodies. Baryton ou mezzo-soprano; ténor ou soprano. Paris: au Ménestrel (Heugel & Cie). 1. A la fontaine. 'Que viens-tu faire à la fontaine?' Poésie d'Eugène Hubert. (Dedicated to Mlle Marthe Boutet de Monvel.) 2. Belle Yoli! 'Voici la pentecôte.' Poésie de Roger de Beauvoir. (Dedicated to Mme Harouel Garcia [low voice] and to Mlle Anna Soubre [high voice].) 3. Ici-bas tous les lilas meurent. Poésie de

Sully Prudhomme. (Dedicated to Mme Montégu-Montibert.)
 4. Sérénade à Rosine. ‘Sous ta mantille sombre.’ Poésie de Louis Pomey. (Dedicated to André Delaroche-Vernet [tenor version].) 5. Madrid. ‘Madrid, princesse des Espagnes.’ Poésie d’Alfred de Musset. (Dedicated to Mlle Mathilde de Nogueiras.) 6. Les Filles de Cadix. Pour mezzo-soprano; pour ténor ou soprano. ‘Nous venions de voir le taureau.’ Poésie d’Alfred de Musset. (Dedicated to Mlle Céline Monvel.) —Manuscripts of nos 1, 2, 4 and 5 are at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. Note that Belle Yoli! there, dated Paris 17 November 1886, has an alternative title: Le Bois joli.

1887. Menuet. This short work for piano perhaps exists only in manuscript. [Private collection in Paris.]

1887. Chanson de Nounou française à Bex. Start of a sketch for a song, dated this year; possibly only a transcription of something overheard. Private collection, Paris.

1887. Scène d’Hermione, tirée de Andromaque, tragédie de Racine. ‘Je ne t’ai point aimé, cruel.’ (Dedicated to Mme [Adèle] Franck-Duvernay.) Paris: au Ménestrel (Heugel), 1887. Editions pour contralto et soprano. —Scène d’Hermione. Pauline Viardot; orchestrated by Henry J. Wood. ?1901. —Three variant autograph piano scores and a manuscript orchestral score and other material are at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. [According to an American source this work (which draws on Chopin mazurkas) was first published around 1850, but that seems improbable.]

?1887. Scène d’Athalie, tirée de la tragédie de Jean Racine. ‘Prêtez-moi l’un et l’autre une oreille attentive.’ I have not traced a published version of this, but it exists in manuscript at Harvard and extracts from it dating from around 1887 are in a private collection; the opening words are from Act II scene v of the play. [This item must not be confused with the duet from Mendelssohn’s Athalie which features (as no. 73) in the Hamelle edition of the Ecole classique du chant.]

?1887. Scène de Phèdre[, tirée de la tragédie de Jean Racine.] ‘Les moments me sont chères, écoutez-moi, Thésée.’ (From the final scene of Phèdre.) No publication traced. Undated manuscripts, with variants, at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz; the suggested year is purely suppositional. [Note that Pauline Viardot apparently also set a scene from Corneille’s Le Cid, but I have not found this.]

1888. La Loutchina. Chanson russe. ‘Loutchina, loutchinouchka berezovaia.’ ‘O flambeau! O mon petit flambeau de bouleau.’ Revue des traditions populaires, vol. III, January 1888, p. 31. Complete text in free

French translation; eight bars only of music and Russian words, several of which are incorrectly transliterated. [This is Pauline Viardot's record of a well-known folksong which she had evidently heard and perhaps sung in Russia several decades before.]

1888. Depuis un mois, chère exilée. Words by François Coppée. Unpublished and perhaps unfinished song for voice and piano. Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

?[1888. Music for one item in the topical revue Cent moins un by Paul Fuchs and Henri Lyon, produced in March 1888 at the house of the singer Henriette Fuchs. Other contributors included Chabrier, Massenet, Chausson, Delibes, d'Indy, Messager and Widor. See S.I.M. Revue musicale mensuelle, April 1910, p. 278; Le Figaro musical, 20 April 1893. I think there was probably confusion with the composer Paul Vidal (1863-1931): see Le Ménestrel, 1 April 1888, p. 111.]

1889. La Marquise. ‘Montant à sa chaise à porteurs.’ Poésie de Maurice Vaucaire. Pour chant et piano. Deux versions vocales. (Dedicated to Mme Edouard Colonne.) Paris: Durand-Schœnework & Cie, 1889. —The Département de la Musique, Bibliothèque nationale de France, has in manuscript: La Chaise à porteurs. Mélodie pour chant et piano, and the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz has two manuscript variants of the published song.

1889. Ressemblance. ‘Vous désirez savoir de moi.’ Poésie de Sully Prudhomme. Baryton ou mezzo-soprano; ténor ou soprano. Paris: Durand-Schœnework & Cie, 1889.

1889. Seulette. ‘Seulette suis et seulette veulx être.’ Paroles du XVe siècle. Recueil de Gaston Paris. Unpublished song. Manuscripts at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, dated Chaville (Seine-et-Oise), September 1889. The text is taken actually from the poem by Christine de Pisan, rather than from the Chansons du XVe siècle (see 1886).

1889. Au mois de rose éclose. Unpublished song with words from the medieval text incorporated at pp. 21-2 in Miette et Noré, by Jean Aicard (1880). One of two manuscripts at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz carries the date May 1889.

1890. Le Rêve de Jésus. Mélodie. (‘Mère au regard si doux.’) The dream of Jesus. (‘Thou who doth guard my rest!’) Traduction anglaise par Beata Garcia. Included at pp. 91-8 in Contes mystiques. Poésies de Stéphan Bordès. Musique de Edmond Diet, Théodore Dubois, Gabriel Fauré, Augusta Holmès, Charles Lecocq, Charles Lenepveu, Henri Maréchal, Jules Massenet, Emile Paladilhe, Camille Saint-Saëns, Pauline Viardot, Charles-Marie Widor. Paris: Durand-Schœnework &

Cie, 1890. [For soprano with piano accompaniment. It seems that some of the items were also orchestrated, but perhaps not Pauline Viardot's one: see Journal des débats, 29 December 1890, p. 3 col. d.]

1892. Six mélodies pour une voix, suivies d'un duo pour deux voix, avec accompagnement de piano. Paris: J. Hamelle, 1892. 1. Premier trouble. 'Chaque jour davantage.' Paroles de Louis Pomey. (Dedicated to Mlle Sacha Ilinsky [Aleksandra Il'inskaya].) 2. Divin sommeil. 'Or Jésus sommeillait.' Paroles de Stéphan Bordèse. (Dedicated to Mlle Laure Taconet.) 3. Chanson d'autrefois. 'Jamais elle ne raille.' Paroles de Victor Hugo. 4. La Japonaise. 'La Japonaise aux yeux d'ébène.' Paroles d'Abel de Montferrier. (Dedicated to Mlle Jeanne Lyon.) 5. La Vierge au lavoir. 'La Vierge Marie, la mère de Dieu.' Paroles de Gabriel Vicaire. (Dedicated to Mlle Mathilde de Nogueiras.) 6. Suzon, Suzette. 'J'adore Suzette, mais j'aime Suzon.' Paroles de Victor Hugo. [7.] Rêverie. 'Automne au ciel brumeux.' Duo. Paroles d'Armand Silvestre. [The individual items were also sold separately.] —Manuscripts of nos 4, 5, 6 and 7 are at Harvard (the last dated 1884), and manuscripts of nos 1 and 3 are at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz (those of no. 1 being actually an arrangement for voice and string quartet).

1893. Parme. Croquis italien. 'L'air pur n'est troublé.' Poésie de Sully Prudhomme. Ténor ou soprano; baryton ou mezzo-soprano. Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, 1893. —Manuscript at Harvard.

1893. Grands oiseaux blancs. 'Grands oiseaux blancs qui bravez les tempêtes.' Chant et piano. Paroles de Louis Pomey. Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, 1893 and no date. —A manuscript of this is at Yale University Library (former collection of Emi de Bidoli). [See also below, Miscellaneous and undatable mss, Les Goëlands.]

1893. Les Attraits. Poésie du XVIIIe siècle. 'D'attraits ravissants pourvue.' (Dedicated to Mme Claudie Chamerot [the composer's daughter].) Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, 1893 and no date.

1893. Rossignol, rossignolet. Villanelle. 'Doux virtuose au cœur tendre.' Poésie de Joseph Bouilmier. Ténor ou soprano; baryton ou mezzo-soprano. (Dedicated to Mlle Marthe Petitdemange.) Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, 1893 and no date. —Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

?1893. Primavera. Villanelle. 'Elle avait quinze ans à peine.' Unpublished song. Text by Joseph Bouilmier. Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

1893. Trois jours de vendange. 'Je l'ai rencontrée un jour de vendange.' Chant et piano. Poésie d'Alphonse Daudet. Ténor ou soprano; baryton ou mezzo-soprano. Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, 1893 and no date. Dedicated to Mlle Marcella Pregi. —Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, entitled ‘Les Trois rencontres’.

1894. Chanson de mer. ‘Ton sourire infini m'est cher.’ Poésie de Sully Prudhomme. Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, no date. —A manuscript of this assigned to 1886 is at Harvard, and the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz has an undated one exhibiting important differences from the published song.

1894. Moderato languissamment. Short piano piece written by Pauline Viardot for her granddaughter. Publication unknown. [Manuscript in a private collection.]

1895. Bonjour mon cœur. Poésie de Pierre de Ronsard. Ténor ou soprano. (Dedicated to Félix Lévy.) Paris: Enoch frères & Costallat, 1895. —Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

1895. La Nuit. ‘Sur les sommets des monts brumeux.’ Mélodie pour une voix avec accompagnement de violon, violoncelle et piano. Paroles de Louis Pomey. Paris: J. Hamelle, 1895.

1895. La Fiancée. Mélodie. ‘Quoi! sur ton front un nuage de deuil?’ [Anton Rubinstein, Mélodie pour piano, op. 3, no. 1.] Arrangée par Pauline Viardot. Poésie de Louis Pomey. Deux versions vocales. [For soprano and for mezzo-soprano.] Paris: Henri Heugel, 1895.

1895. Conseil. ‘Si tu tiens à blanchir ta peau.’ Song, doubtless never published; manuscript at Harvard.

1895. Six mazourkas de Fr. Chopin arrangées par Pauline Viardot. Mazurki Fr. Shopena aranzhirovannyye dlya peniya P. Viardo. [Each of nos 1-5=Mazurka dlya golosa s fortepiano. No. 6=Mazurka-duet dlya dvukh golosov s fortepiano.] Izdaniye na russkom i frantsuzskom yazyke. St Petersburg: V. Bessel’, 1895; 1916. [Russian translations by A.A. Gorchakova.] 1. Shestnadtsat’ let. ‘Vot mne shestnadtsat’ let.’ Seize ans. 2. Lyubi menya. Aime-moi. 3. Skorb’. ‘K chemu zhe skryvat’ stradan’ya?’ Plainte d’amour. 4. Koketka. ‘Chtob tebya lyubit’. Coquette. 5. Ptashka. L’Oiselet. 6. Razluka. ‘Da, pora rasstat’sya.’ Séparation. —See 1864, Six mazourkes, first series.

1896. Au Japon. Pantomime en un acte par Sabine Mancel. Accompagnement de piano par Pauline Viardot. Paris: Enoch & Cie, 1896. For one or two pianos in unison, with two female and three male non-singing performers. —The author and composer had begun work on this in 1890, and several drafts and scores for it exist in private collections.

?1896. Le Chagrin des fleurs. ‘L’arôme de la fleur a perdu son mérite.’ Song set to the words of an advertising quatrain by Paul Hortus for ‘le savon du Congo’ by Victor Vaissier. Manuscript at Harvard. [See Le Journal amusant, 10 October 1896, p. 7.]

1897. Mazourkas arrangées par Mme Pauline Viardot. In Útwory Fryderyka Chopina ułożone do śpiewu. Warsaw: Gebethner & Wolff, 1897; 1899. This edition of fifteen mazurkas includes the two series of Six mazourkes de Frédéric Chopin (1864 and 1865), together with: 13. [Op. 7, no. 3.] L’Inondation. Duo. (‘L’eau mugissante.’) Paroles de Stéphan Bordèse. Opuszczona. (‘Szumi wicher w lesie.’) 14. [Op. 17, no. 1.] Beau rossignol. Duo. Paroles de Stéphan Bordèse. Swaty. (‘Dana moja dana!’) 15. [Op. 59, no. 1.] Les Traîneaux. (‘Sur cette glace.’) Paroles de Stéphan Bordèse. Sanna. (‘Pruszy śnieżek pruszy.’) [The Polish translations of the mazurka texts are by J. Chęciński (nos 1-6) and P. Maszyński (nos 7-15). Note that the text of no. 13 here is an alternative to that of Faible cœur! in the original second series of mazurkas; the piano accompaniment is also quite different. According to A.S. Rozanov, one should add to the present list a setting of Chopin’s mazurka op. 30 no. 1, under the title ‘Conte ancien’.]

1897. Je n’aime pas les toreros. Song, doubtless never published; manuscript at Harvard.

1897. On ne peut s’en lasser. Song, doubtless never published; manuscript at Harvard.

1897. Toujours le Congo. ‘Le jeu conduit au vol, l’or à l’indépendance.’ Song set to the words of another advertising quatrain for ‘le savon du Congo’ by Victor Vaissier (see 1896), this time by Victor Leveu. Manuscript at Harvard. [See La Liberté, Fribourg, 9 July 1891, p. 4.]

1899. Chœur bohémien. ‘Vrais enfants de la Bohême.’ Pour piano et chant [solo et chœur de femmes], avec accompagnement de tambourin et triangle. Paris: Enoch & Cie, 1899. —Chœur bohémien. Chant et piano par Pauline Viardot. Pour trois voix de femme et solo. Paris: Enoch & Cie, 1899 and no date. [See also ?1868. Gipsy rondo.]

1899. Chœur des elfes. ‘Compagnes ailées, mes sœurs bien-aimées.’ Piano et chant par Pauline Viardot. Pour trois voix de femme et solo. Paris: Enoch & Cie, 1899 and no date. [From the operetta Le Dernier sorcier.]

1899. Au jardin de mon père. Chanson du XVe siècle, mise en musique par Pauline Viardot. (‘Au jardin de mon père il y croît un rousier.’) Supplément de l’Illustration, 1 July 1899. —Paris: Eugène

Fromont, 1900. —Manuscripts at Harvard, in a private collection, and at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz (which has several, dating from 1893-94; one carries the title Aymez-moy). Medieval text from Chansons du XVe siècle, published by Gaston Paris: see 1886.

1900. Chanson de la pluie. ‘Coulez, coulez, gouttes fines.’ Paroles d’Yvan Tourguenoff. A ma fille Marianne Duvernoy. Trois versions vocales. Paris and London: Enoch & Cie, 1900. —Novoye vremya, 28 October 1900. —Manuscripts of this are at Yale University Library (former collection of Emi de Bidoli) and at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. [Stella’s aria from the operetta Le Dernier sorcier.]

1901. Ave Maria. (Ave Maria gratia plena.) Pour solo avec chœur (ad libitum) [avec accompagnement de piano ou orgue]. Paris: Enoch & Cie, 1901. —This existed also in a version without chorus. —Manuscripts of it are at the University of Michigan and the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

1901. Song of an at present unknown title, published with the article ‘Mme Pauline Viardot, compositeur’ by Henri de Curzon. Supplément illustré to La Gazette de France, December 1901. [According to the Bibliothèque nationale de France and other French authorities, this supplement may no longer exist. See Polybiblion. Revue bibliographique universelle, January 1902, p. 49; Les Annales politiques et littéraires, 2 February 1902, p. 77.]

1904. Cendrillon. Opérette de salon. Représentée la première fois dans les Salons de Mlle de Nogueiras. Le 23 Avril 1904... Paris: G. Miran, 1904. 86pp. [Contains the music and verbal cues.] —Cendrillon. Opéra-comique en 3 tableaux. Paroles et musique de Pauline Viardot. Paris: G. Miran, 1904. 44pp. [Contains the libretto.] [Despite what the title seems to imply, the contemporary performances of this operetta for voices and piano, which was conceived and partially sketched much earlier, took place actually in March-May 1904 (indeed in the apartment of Mathilde de Nogueiras to whom it is dedicated). Its plot is a modernised version of the tale by Charles Perrault; contrary to what is sometimes stated, it owes nothing but the family name of its leading characters to Le Château de Pictordu by George Sand (1873), even though Pauline Viardot may have originally intended to draw upon that story more. While it is wrong to believe with Charles H. Parsons, in The Mellen opera reference index: Opera librettists and their works (Lewiston and Queenston, 1987, vol. II, p. 780), that the author of the words for Cendrillon was Turgenev rather than Pauline Viardot, the work does incorporate music for the Duo de la rose in Le Dernier sorcier, and quotes its Entrée des elfes.] —Air de la fée. (‘Je viens te rendre à l’espérance.’) Dedicated to Mme Borello d’Artaux. Paris: G. Miran, 1904. —C'est moi, ne craignez rien. Duo. Paris: G. Miran, no date. — Some manuscript musical notation for the operetta is at Harvard, together with written drafts and sketches; numerous other partial manuscripts are at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz and in private collections.

1904. Mélodies. Paris: G. Miran, 1904. 1. Le Toréador. Poésie de Victor Hugo. [The poem is actually Canción.] ‘J'avais une bague, une bague d'or... Mon anneau luit plus que l'astre vermeil.’ (Dedicated to Alfred Josset.) 2. Peronelle [La Péronnelle]. ‘Avez-vous vu fillette en larmes.’ Poésie [du] XVe siècle. (Dedicated to Mlle Marie-Thérèse Josset.) [This item existed also in a choral version.] 3. Poursuite. Poésie toscane. ‘Du cerf pour m'échapper prends-tu l'image?’ Paroles [françaises] de Victor Hugo. [Poesia toscana. (Se per fuggir da me.)] (Dedicated to Mme Dal Piaz.) 4. Sara la baigneuse. ‘Sara, belle d'indolence.’ Poésie de Victor Hugo. (Dedicated to Mme Eugène Capet [Marguerite Droz?]) 5. Le Vase brisé. ‘Le vase où meurt cette verveine.’ Poésie de Sully Prudhomme. (Dedicated to Mlle Elisabeth de Courcel.) 6. Le Savetier et le Financier. ‘Un savetier chantait du matin jusqu’au soir.’ Fable de La Fontaine. (Dedicated to Lucien Fugère.) —Paris: Auditorium musical, ?1905. —According to an American source these songs, which also existed separately, were first published in the period 1860-70, but that is most unlikely, even though a setting of no. 6 was written as long before as 1846 (and no. 2 originally in 1887). — Manuscripts of nos 1 and 2 are at Harvard, nos 1, 3, 4 and 5 at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, and no. 5 at Yale University Library (former collection of Emi de Bidoli); some of these are variants of the published songs.

1904. Elle passe! ‘Du fond de l'allée accourt en riant.’ Paroles et musique. Paris: G. Miran, 1904. [A French version of Der Gärtner (1870).]

1904. Deux airs de ballet [pour piano]. (Dedicated to Mlle Cécile Boutet de Monvel.) Paris: G. Miran, 1904. 1. [Air de ballet, sans titre.] 2. Malicieuse. —Deuxième air de ballet de Pauline Viardot, orchestré par Ivan Snoèk. Paris: G. Miran, ?1905.

1904. Suite arménienne. (Quand même!) Pour piano à deux mains. Paris: G. Miran, 1904. —Pour piano à quatre mains. Paris: G. Miran, 1904.

1905. Canzone d'amore. ‘Ti voglio amar se la terra tremasse.’ Canti popolari toscani. Paris: G. Miran, 1905. —Manuscript at Harvard.

1905. En douleur et tristesse. Paroles du XVe siècle. (‘Dans les pleurs, la tristesse.’) Pour ténor ou soprano. (Dedicated to Mlle de Vidal [sic for Emilie Vidal].) Paris: G. Miran, 1905. —Manuscripts at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

1905. Chœur des fileuses. Extrait de L'Ogre, conte fantastique en trois tableaux. Paroles d'Yvan Tourguenoff. ‘Lorsque le soleil dans un flot vermeil.’ Paris: G. Miran, 1905. —A manuscript version of this for one to three female voices is at Harvard. [See 1868, L’Ogre.]

1905. Défilé bohémien. Pour piano à quatre mains. (Dedicated to Mme Edouard Lyon [Fanny Coche].) Paris: G. Miran, 1905. —Orchestré par Ivan Snoëk. Paris: G. Miran, 1905. —A manuscript entitled Marche bohémienne is at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

1905. Ta chevelure. Chanson napolitaine. Paroles françaises de Vincent Des Louÿs. (A mon élève Mme Louise Willoughby Lissa.) Paris: G. Miran, 1905.

1905. Liberté! Chanson de page. ‘Voulez-vous savoir ce qui fait la joie?’ Paroles de Stéphan Bordès. (Dedicated to Mme Henriette Fuchs.) Paris: G. Miran, 1905. —Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz, and another with corrections by Pauline Viardot in a private collection.

1905. Mazourke. Pour piano à deux mains. Paris: G. Miran, 1905. —Mazourka. Orchestré par Ivan Snoëk. Paris: G. Miran, 1905. —A manuscript version entitled Tempo di mazurka is at Harvard.

1906. Alza, Pepita! Danse populaire espagnole pour piano. Paris: G. Miran, 1906.

?1908. Fermière et Demoiselle. ‘Veut-on savoir?’ A song perhaps inspired by the Palace of Women’s Work at the Franco-British Exhibition of this year. Doubtless unpublished; manuscripts at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz and in a private collection.

?1909. Air ancien. A Pauline Viardot song of this title for voice and piano was performed at a concert in Paris on 29 April 1910.

1910. Chanson hongroise. No. 1. ‘Bien au loin, là-bas.’ Traduction française de Louis Pomey. Paris, 1910. —Manuscript at Harvard.

?1910. Berceuse. ‘Les étoiles naissent aux cieux.’ Poème de M. Stéphane [sic] Bordès. Musique inédite de Mme Pauline Viardot. [A copy of this apparently otherwise unknown, posthumously printed work is found in a private collection in Paris. The manuscript, which looks as though it was written perhaps in the 1890s, has been offered for sale by Wurlitzer-Bruck.]

Miscellaneous and undatable manuscripts

Ah! doux souvenir du temps de la jeunesse. Duet for Mère M. and Père M. Bibliothèque nationale de France, Fonds slave.

L'Aimable messagère. ‘On veut utiliser l'hirondelle à la guerre!’ Song. Harvard.

Allegretto and Andante espressivo, for violin and piano. Harvard.

Allumeur de désir dans les cœurs presque éteints. Song. Harvard.

Après avoir tout fait. Song. Harvard.

Il braccio mio. Transposition of Rossini’s ornate decorations on a cavatina by Giuseppe Niccolini inserted in his (Rossini’s) opera Tancredi. Harvard.

Budget. Song. Harvard.

Cadenzas and embellishments for operatic arias. —Cadenza for Lachner’s melody ‘Je pense à toi, Marie’, for voice and cello accompaniment. Département de la Musique, Bibliothèque nationale de France. [This is perhaps a French adaptation of Ignaz Lachner’s ‘An die Entfernte’. There was an English version of a Lachner song entitled ‘I think then of thee’, and a very popular ‘Je pense à toi’ by Joseph H. Doppler.] —‘Cadenzen Viardot.’ Cadenzas for arias by Bellini (La sonnambula), Donizetti (Parisina, Lucrezia Borgia, Lucia di Lammermoor), and others. Manuscript collection of Marcella Sembrich, New York Public Library. —Two sets of vocalises and cadenzas for various operatic arias, one of 4 pages and the other written on 23 pages for Gertrud Seeger-Engel. Library of Congress, Washington, ML96.V44 (case). —Cadenza for ‘Regnava nel silenzio’ from Donizetti’s Lucia di Lammermoor. Harvard. —Embellishment of ‘Perché non ho del vento’, from Donizetti’s Rosmonda d’Inghilterra. Harvard. [For these last, see also Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, Wenn Musik der Liebe Nahrung ist: Künstlerschicksale im 19. Jahrhundert, Stuttgart, 1990, p. 343.]

Canción española. ‘Pues por besarte, Minguillo.’ Harvard.

C'est bien vous. ‘La plus charmante femme.’ Song with words from Sérénade by Auguste de Châtillon. Harvard.

Celui que j'aime est sur la mer. Song. Private collection in Paris. [Perhaps a French setting of a poem called ‘My love is on the sea’, whether by Timothy Loker or Edward Oxenford.]

Chanson bohémienne. Song. Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

Chanson de pirates. ‘Nous emmenions en esclavage.’ Text from Les Orientales by Victor Hugo. Song. Harvard.

Come fan’ le ragazze. Song. Private collection in Paris.

El corazón triste. Spanish song. Manuscript at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

L’Emir de Bengador. ‘Si tu savais que je t’adore.’ Song with words by Joseph Méry. Harvard.

L’Enfant grec. ‘Les Turcs ont passé là.’ Text from Les Orientales by Victor Hugo. Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

L’Esprit. ‘Le jour, la nuit veille un esprit.’ Paroles de Gustave Vaëz. Song. Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. [This may conceivably be connected with the project for a comic opera based on La Mare au diable by George Sand, of which Vaëz was to write the words. See 1860s, above.]

Esquisses pour piano. Manuscript attributed to Pauline Viardot. Département de la Musique, Bibliothèque nationale de France.

Les Goëlands. ‘Grands oiseaux blancs qui planez sur les ondes.’ Song to words stated to be by Auguste Brizeux. Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. [See also 1893, Grands oiseaux blancs, to which it may be related.]

Juanita. ‘Caminito de la Andalucía, me dijo un gitano.... Para hermosear Granada.’ Song (allegro and jota). Harvard. [Pauline Viardot’s copy—with slight alterations—of Sebastián Yradier’s ‘Juanita o La perla de Aragón’.]

Kränze versprachst du/Mit mir zu winden. Vocal part of a song or arietta. Harvard. [The text is taken from ‘Die Braut’ in Siegfried Kapper’s Slavische Melodien (Leipzig, 1844).]

Lourdaud! Song. Harvard. [This could perhaps have some connection with Musset’s poem ‘Le Rideau de ma voisine’.]

Le Moissonneur. ‘Il est un moissonneur que l’on nomme la mort.’ A setting of the poem by Gustave de Larenaudière, based on an old German folk poem included as ‘Es ist ein Schnitter, der heißt Tod’ in von Arnim and Brentano’s Des Knaben Wunderhorn. Incomplete manuscript in a private collection.

Morgenlied. ‘Wer schlägt so rasch an das Fenster mir.’ (‘Qui donc frappa à ma fenêtre?’) Song with words by Wilhelm Müller. Harvard and a private collection.

Nourmahal-la-Rousse. Song. Médiathèque Hector Berlioz. [A setting of the poem by Victor Hugo.]

Petit oiseau qui charmes le bocage. Song. Médiathèque Hector

Berlioz. [Possibly an adaptation of a poem by Lamartine, but perhaps from a medieval text.]

Primavera. Italian song with words translated from Armand Silvestre's Vous aimerez demain. Private collection in Paris.

Saluto. 'Vi vengo a salutar, bella ragazza.' A song in Pauline Viardot's series of Canti popolari toscani, from Giuseppe Tigri. Manuscripts at the Médiathèque Hector Berlioz and in a private collection.

Soir d'avril or Soir de printemps. 'Je t'aime ô soir humide.' Song to words by Louis Pomey. Médiathèque Hector Berlioz (two manuscripts).

Sonetto [di Petrarca]. 'Amor con sue promesse lusingando.' Song. Advertised in Lisa Cox catalogue, no. 39 (2001), item 122, and now in a private collection.

Tableau antique. 'Non, tu n'es plus pour moi le même.' Song with words by Sully Prudhomme (apparently from the Russian of Pushkin). Harvard and a private collection.

The three ravens. 'There were three ravens sat on a tree.' Song with words from the English ballad. Harvard.

Les Trois oiseaux. 'J'ai dit au ramier.' Song to words by François Coppée. Médiathèque Hector Berlioz.

Tutti matti! 'E matta la mia madre.' Italian cabaret song. Two versions, Harvard; also in a private collection.

Voici que les lys ont ouvert leurs cœurs étoilés à la brise. Song to words by Armand Silvestre. Harvard.

Addenda. In addition to items listed above, Harvard has folders with musical notations by Pauline Viardot for various poems in French, Russian and Latin, together with undated fragments, sketches or drafts for songs provisionally entitled: Amour de mai (with traditional words; cf. 1840s and 1850s, L'Amour au mois de mai); Gretchen; Comme l'heure passe vite (with words by Armand Silvestre); La Laitière et le Pot au lait (Perrette, sur sa tête, by La Fontaine); Soirée d'automne ('Voici venir le soir'; by Gustave de Larenaudière). Harvard also has two measures of musical notation by Pauline Viardot accompanying a draft libretto with the title Aïscha, and part of a libretto called Simone. Finally, Pauline Viardot made some annotations on the manuscript of Mozart's Don Giovanni, which she owned and later donated to the Paris Conservatoire; it is now at the Département de la Musique of the Bibliothèque nationale de France. Note that these last comments take no account of a number of draft or completed musical items by Pauline Viardot held in two or three important private collections, including some for operettas otherwise unknown.

The Musical Works of Pauline Viardot-Garcia
(1821-1910)

A chronological list of musical incipits with an indication of items recorded, and a discography

Nicholas G. Žekulin

I would like first of all to thank my long-time colleague and friend Patrick Waddington for the opportunity to participate in his pioneering project devoted to providing a catalogue of the compositions of Pauline Viardot. Like Patrick, I came to Pauline Viardot initially through my interest in Ivan Turgenev. As I became better acquainted with this remarkable woman, not only did my appreciation of her multiple talents and achievements increase, but so did my understanding of Turgenev's fascination for her. Despite the enmity often displayed towards her by scholars of Turgenev and the occasionally prurient insinuations of those who find the nature of the forty-year friendship between Turgenev and both Pauline and Louis Viardot difficult to comprehend, there can be no doubt about the underlying intellectual atmosphere of mutual support in which they lived and worked. This can be seen in a number of instances in this catalogue of Pauline's compositions.

This initial attempt at compiling a thematic catalogue has been relatively successful in finding and reproducing Pauline Viardot's published works. While a few items remain tantalizingly unlocated, the materials assembled represent by a large margin the greater part of her musical compositions published over her long creative life. As such, they may provide incentives for performers to explore some of the compositions that still remain unknown. The next stage of this work will involve a more systematic collection of information about the available unpublished manuscripts. As this edition of the Catalogue shows, these are much more numerous than was previously known, and it is clear that the next few years will see a further expansion of this section. Admittedly, not all manuscripts are currently available; furthermore, some of the manuscripts are drafts from which it will not be easy, or even possible in some cases, to extract coherent "quotations." Nonetheless, such work may serve to answer some of the remaining questions about the relationship of manuscripts with known and published compositions by Pauline Viardot herself, or with the work of other composers that she arranged for her own use and that of other singers.

In addition to Patrick Waddington for the opportunity to collaborate so closely on this project, and to the libraries and institutions he mentions in his Preface, I would like to thank the librarians at the University of Calgary, and in particular in its Inter-Library Document Delivery Division for their assistance in obtaining some fairly rare items. I would also like to thank Valentina Lukina of Pushkinskiy dom in St. Petersburg for her efforts and assistance in tracking down hard-to-find Russian material. Finally, I would like to echo earnestly the call made by Patrick Waddington for assistance from those who find errors or omissions and, especially, from those who can help us locate the lacunae in the main catalogue or the appendices.

A musical score for voice and piano. The vocal line consists of eighth-note patterns and rests. The piano accompaniment features eighth-note chords and sustained notes. The lyrics are written below the staff.

Recordings of Pauline Viardot's Music: A Note

Pauline Viardot retired from public singing many years before vocal recordings became commonplace, although she lived until some time after the famous early recordings by such artists as Enrico Caruso and Nellie Melba (1902) that mark the beginnings of the musical recording industry. Interestingly, the first recording of a composition by Viardot was made still in her lifetime, although there is no information that she was aware of it. On 9 October 1907, the Polish-American mezzo-soprano Marcella Sembrich (Prakseda Marcelina Kochańska, 1858—1935) recorded „Aime-moi”, the second of the first set of Viardot arrangements of Chopin Mazurkas. In true Viardot fashion, Sembrich accompanied herself on the piano (the recording is available on CD in the Prima Voce series by Nimbus, NIM 7901, issued in 1999).

The general lack of interest in Pauline Viardot is reflected in the lack of recordings until well into the age of the LP. In 1966 Marilyn Horne issued a 2 LP set, “Souvenir of a Golden Era,” in which one record was devoted to the repertoire of each of the Garcia sisters (reissued in 2007 on CD, Decca 475 8439). It was, however, the performance of “Cendrillon” at the 1967 Newport Jazz Festival (Newport, RI) that served to promote the current awakening of interest in the music of Pauline Viardot herself. The Newport Jazz Festival had initially thought of presenting Le Dernier Sorcier, but ultimately decided in favour of the later operetta. In 1971 there was a revival of the Newport production in celebration of the 150th anniversary of Viardot’s birth. At the “Opening Night Opera Gala” at The Breakers Great Hall on the evening of Thursday, July 29, the operetta occupied the second half of the programme, while the first half was devoted primarily to her own vocal compositions: “Sara la Baigneuse”, “Chœur des Fileuses”, “Die Soldatenbraut”, “In der Frühe”, “Madrid”, “Das ist ein schlechtes Wetter”, “Si tu ne sais pas” (the Krakamiche-Stella duet from Le Dernier Sorcier), “Ta Chevelure”, “Der Nachtwandler” and “Les Bohémiennes”. This revival was soon followed in 1972 by a recording of Cendrillon from Opera Rara (not the recording issued in 2000). As regards recordings of her songs, in 1977 Gemini Hall Records issued a 2 LP set entitled Woman’s Work: works by famous women composers (RAP 1010) which included two of the Fet songs from the 1864 Breitkopf & Härtel Album (“Flüstern, atemscheues Lauschen” and “Die Sterne”). A recording issued in 1984 on the Leonarda label of Lieder by Fanny Mendelssohn, Clara Schumann, Josephina Lang and PV included 3 of her Pushkin songs from the same album, sung by John Ostendorf accompanied by Rudolph Palmer. Two of these (“Das Vöglein” and “Die Beschwörung”) have been reissued on CD (Leonarda LE 353) as part of the 2 CD set “Women Composers: The Lost Tradition Found” (the omitted song was “Des Nachts”).

It was, however, the arrival of the CD era that marks the beginning of the widespread presence of recordings of music by Pauline Viardot. Although it was not the first CD, the 1996 disk “Chant d’Amour” by Cecilia Bartoli accompanied by Myung-Whun Chung (Decca London 452 667-2) that included 3 late songs by PV brought PV to the attention of a world-wide audience. Bartoli also included PV songs in her concerts, one of which was recorded and issued on both CD and DVD as “Live in Italy” (Decca CD 2894559812, 1998; DVD 074 104-9 DH, 2001). Since that time, recordings have appeared almost regularly and the music of Pauline Viardot is increasingly often performed on the concert platform. Among her instrumental music it is the 6 Morceaux for violin and piano that seem to have captured the attention of violinists, while her piano music (solo and for 4 hands) remains largely unexplored.

As concert programmes from around the world — and even a glance at U-Tube — will show, a large number of singers, including the countertenor Philippe Jaroussky, have now started to include the songs by Pauline Viardot, especially the Mazurkas, “Hai-luli” and the “Havanaise”, in their recitals. Her operettas have also been revived. The State Theatre in Turgenev’s home town of Orel first performed Le Dernier Sorcier in 1993 and has given many performances, including a number in France, since that time. Excerpts from Le Dernier Sorcier were presented at the Hochschule der Künste Berlin in 1999 (and repeated in Baden-Baden). Both of these were based on the Eduard Lassen orchestration used in Weimar in 1869. The entire operetta was presented at the University of Calgary in January 2005, in an edition that reconstructed the chamber version used for the opening of the Viardot theatre in Baden-Baden on 13th August 1869 and that attempted to bring the work closer to PV’s original by removing the hundreds of changes introduced by Lassen. A revised edition of this chamber version was used in 2010 for productions by Women’s Works, Ithaca NY, USA and by L’Opéra au Village in Pourrières, France. Both these companies have the distinction of having presented two of Viardot’s stage works, for they also performed Cendrillon, Women’s Works in 2007 (repeated in 2010), L’Opéra au Village in 2008.

Pauline has not been the only member of the Garcia-Viardot family to have benefited from the current diversity of recorded music, particularly with the rise of small specialized labels. In 1994 Ernesto Palacio released a CD, devoted to the music of Manuel García père (“Canciones” Almaviva DS 0114 [EP]). In 2007 Cecilia Bartoli turned her attention to Maria Malibran with a CD of music from the repertoire of the “Romantic diva” and including “La figlia dell’aria” from the zarzuela “El poeta calculista” by her father as well as two compositions by Maria herself, “Rataplan” and a substitution aria for Donizetti’s “L’elisir d’amore.” (Decca 4759077 4). The CD, entitled simply “Maria,” was also available as a package with a sumptuously illustrated book and a documentary DVD (Decca 475 9082). The recording preceded an extensive concert tour that included a concert in Barcelona that was recorded and issued on DVD (including a second DVD “Malibran Rediscovered”) (Decca 074 3252 5). From the next generation of this talented family comes a recording of Louise Héritte-Viardot’s 3 piano quartets by the Ensemble Viardot (Ars Produktion DH4202, 2007). (Both the Gemini Hall Records set “Woman’s Work: works by famous women composers” and the “Women Composers: The Lost Tradition Found” set from Leonarda contained a movement from one of her piano quartets.) Finally, Ulf Schneider and Stephan Imorde include Paul Viardot’s Romance for violin and piano in D Major, op. 6 on their recording of Pauline’s violin music for her son. This brings us full circle, because two recordings by Paul himself have survived and are available on rival compilations of early violin recordings. The first CD of volume 1 of “The Recorded Violin” (Pearl BVA 1, 1991) contains a 1902 recording of the Prélude to Saint-Saëns’s “Le Déluge”; Testament’s 2 CD set “The Great Violinists 1900-13” (TES 21323, 2004) has Paul’s recording of the first of Henri Wieniawski’s op. 19 Mazurkas.

(The internet occasionally produces references to recordings, references that are incorrect, or misleading. Arion SA, the company that now owns the “Pierre Verany” label confirms that, despite repeated references to a 1993 recording on that label containing material by Pauline Viardot, no such recording was ever produced. References to a Joan Sutherland recording of “Les Filles de Cadix” (re-released in 2006) are actually to the Léo Delibes setting of this text. The same is true of references to the 2007 Decca recital by Nicole Cabell)
